COURSE OF LEGISLATION.

His Honour the President said:—"Gentlemen, I am afraid you will consider that I have called you here to-day rather under false pretences when the ostensible cause is, that I am going to make a statement regarding the course of legislation during the Session. But, as a matter of fact, the statement that I have to make is, regarding the absence of any legislative business.

"There is on the notice paper a motion in regard to a Bill to repeal certain obsolete enactments. The Government of India in their Legislative Council, in the words of Sir Andrew Scoble, were clearing away dead matter from the Statute Book, and they desired that a similar course should be taken by us in regard to the Bengal Statutes. The Hon'ble Mr. Allen has in hand and will move to-day for leave to introduce a Bill for that purpose, which will be proceeded with somewhat later after careful examination.

"Then there is another Bill which is on the anvil and which has been printed and is ready to be introduced. But, after some correspondence with the Secretary of State, we find that it will require certain alterations to be made, and it will probably take some little time. It is a Bill in connection with the amendment of the Court of Wards' Act.

"These are the only two Bills which I can say are at all ready to be laid before the Council at present.

"There is another Bill which has been printed and circulated and which some of the members may have seen in their capacity as members of the Associations consulted. It has reference to our Bengal Revenue Sale Law. It is a very important Bill and will require careful consideration. But the reports of all the bodies which have been consulted have not yet been received, and it will probably be some months before it will be ready to be laid before the Council.

"Beyond these Bills I have no work in hand that will require your attention. I am glad, however, of the opportunity of calling you together before my departure; first, that I might have the pleasure of introducing you to my successor, Sir Charles Elliott, and secondly, that I might express, before I go, my gratitude for the assistance you have given me, and my extreme satisfaction at the way in which business has always been conducted in this Council. It is a matter of great regret to me that I am leaving you, and that I shall have nothing more to say in this Council. The Presidency hereafter will devolve on my friend Sir Charles Elliott, and I am quite sure you will give him all the loyal assistance which you have given me in this Council."

OBSOLETE ENACTMENTS BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Allen moved for leave to introduce a Bill to repeal certain obsolete enactments and to amend certain other enactments.

He said:—"The Bill in question is a purely technical one, and I therefore can promise the Council that it will be without a particle of interest for any single member of it, unless it be the hon'ble jurist opposite, who may take the opportunity of favouring us with one of his exhaustive discourses on abstract principles. In fact, however, the Bill is nothing more or less than a waste-paper basket, in which it is desirable to collect some of the litter which still encumbers the Bengal Code. I have already seen the provisions of the Bill, and I do not think it can be better described than the waste-paper basket of the Bengal Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned for one month.

SONTHAL SETTLEMENTS.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 15th December 1890.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter No. 1899R, dated 31st October, 1890, from the Commissioner of the Bhagulpore Division and Sonthal Pergunnahs, with enclosures.

A letter No. 1680T—A, dated 6th December, 1890, from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal, with enclosure.

A note on the proposed rules for settlement of rent in the Sonthal Pergunnahs by Mr. W. Mating Grant, a proprietor of land in that district.

When the settlement of certain private estates was initiated under the Sonthal Pergunnahs Settlement Regulation of 1872, it was originally assumed by the local officers that the rent could be most equitably fixed by applying the recorded village rates to the areas ascertained by the new measurement, but as the work proceeded this course was found to be impracticable. The Deputy Commissioner reported that an assessment framed on this principle would lead to excessive enhancements, injurious to the interests of the landlord as well as to those of the tenants. It, moreover, appeared that these rates had not been strictly enforced at the last settlement; that the measurements then made were very rough; and that the assessment of all newly cultivated land at full rates could not be reconciled with section 21 of the Regulation, which requires the Settlement Officer in any case in which the tenant has reclaimed waste to regard that fact in settling the rents. In view of these considerations, the Commissioner has requested Government to issue instructions for the guidance of Settlement Officers in fixing rents, and the following draft rules have been framed. They are now published for general criticism, and, if no objection to them is received, will be confirmed after the interval of one month.

The first of the draft rules merely draws attention to the fact, which in the correspondence has sometimes been overlooked, that the law requires the Settlement Officer to fix a fair rent in every case, either accepting the existing rent as having that character, or altering it to meet the circumstances as ascertained by the survey. The second is framed on the principle that existing rents must, in the absence of an alteration in area shown by the settlement itself, be assumed to be fair and equitable till the contrary is proved. Rule 3 has been prepared in communication with the local officers to indicate the margin of error which should ordinarily be allowed in view of the rough measurements made at the original settlement. It is not applicable where the particular lands formerly settled are demarcated or can be identified with certainty, so that the new cultivation is clearly distinguishable. Rule 4 embodies the existing practice for the assessment of new lands, which is in conformity with section 21 of the Regulation. The case of villages not previously measured is provided for in the fifth rule. Rule 6 embodies the principle accepted by the Bengal Tenancy Act for giving the landlord the benefit of improvements made by him. The limit imposed on enhancement by the seventh rule is considered necessary to prevent an excessive increase of rent in a district such as the Sonthal Pergunnahs.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RULES.

1. A fair rent shall be settled FOR EVERY holding.

Method of settling fair rents.

2. Where the Settlement Officer has reason to believe that area rates were fixed at the last settlement, and that rentals were determined by the application of these rates to areas of holdings, ascertained by measurement, the rates then fixed and rentals then ascertained shall ordinarily be held to be fair for the areas at that time in the raiyats' possession.

3. In determining what area was in each raiyat's possession at the time of the last settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have regard to the inaccuracies in the survey and in classification of soils then made, and to differences in areas which are due to the difference between the methods of survey then and that now adopted, and he shall allow a reasonable percentage on the old recorded areas (not ordinarily less than 15 or more than 25), which shall be determined by the Commissioner for each village or class of villages, on the grounds above specified. The difference between the areas of holdings as shown by the present and the former measurement, after the aforesaid allowance is made, shall be presumed until the contrary is proved to be "newly cultivated."

4. "Newly cultivated lands," as defined in the last preceding rule, shall be assessed at half the rates current in the village for lands of the class to which they belong

Settlement of rents where rents were not based on application of rates to areas of holdings ascertained by survey at the last settlement.

5. Where the rentals of holdings were not determined by the application of rates to areas ascertained by measurement at the last settlement, the Settlement Officer shall now settle fair and equitable area rates, having regard to the considerations mentioned in sections 20 and 21 of Regulation III of 1872, and shall determine the rent of every holding by the application of these rates to the area of holdings resulting from survey.

General.

6. When the productive power of the land has been increased by an improvement effected by the landlord during the currency of the present settlement, the rent may be increased on that account, and in such cases the Settlement Officer in determining the amount of the enhancement shall have regard to—

(i) the increase in the productive powers of the land caused, or likely to be caused, by the improvement,

(ii) the cost of the improvement,

(iii) the cost of the cultivation required for utilizing the improvement, and

(iv) the existing rent and the ability of the land to bear a higher rent.

7. The aggregate full rental of any village shall not exceed by more than 50 per cent. the rental fixed at the last settlement, and the increase in rental up to this maximum may, in the discretion of the Settlement Officer, be made progressive.

8. The rents now settled shall remain unchanged for 15 years.

9. An appeal shall lie from orders of the Settlement Officer under these rules to the Deputy Commissioner, and when the Deputy Commissioner's order differs from that of the Settlement Officer, an appeal shall lie from the Deputy Commissioner to the Commissioner, provided that an appeal on questions regarding rates shall lie in every case from the Deputy Commissioner to the Commissioner.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

≏, dew; ≡, fog; o, overcast; d, drizzling rain.

* Mean of six days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers under rainfall are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past ten years. stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least one-tenth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 12th of December 1890.

CALCUTTA, the 16*th December* 1890

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 12TH OF DECEMBER 1890.

THE week commenced with conditions which were a little abnormal for the period; pressure was rather considerably in defect of the normal, particularly in North Bengal and Behar, where in some cases the defect almost equalled a tenth of an inch. Temperature was at the western and southern stations rather largely in excess, stations like Chupra and Dehree showing an excess in the mean temperature of nearly 7°. Winds were also much more strongly westerly than usual, and at some stations even south-westerly winds were reported. On the 7th pressure had risen generally, the rise being largest in Behar and North Bengal, while it was comparatively small in South and South-West Bengal. This was succeeded by a slight rise on the 8th which was fairly equal in all districts, while on the 9th a similar slight fall was recorded. On the 10th, however, another fall of pressure was recorded, which was largest in North Behar and North Bengal, and which over the whole of Bengal was moderately large except at the stations in the extreme south-east of the province and in the south of Orissa. Indeed, on this date a distinct area of low pressure was lying over Behar, part of North Bengal, and the western parts of Central and South-West Bengal. The winds blowing over Bengal showed distinctly the effect of this low-pressure area, and at the head of the Bay and at many of the inland stations also southerly winds set in, bringing up moderate amounts of moisture from the Bay. Temperature had also generally increased steadily, and in some cases rather rapidly, on the 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th, the rise in the mean temperature on the latter date averaging about 2°, so that by the 10th temperature had become particularly high for the season. Indeed, at the western stations on this date the mean temperature was in excess of the normal by from 5° at Calcutta to about 11° at Ranchee and Chybassa, though at the eastern stations the excess temperatures were comparatively small. It will thus be seen on the 10th conditions were distinctly abnormal, and indeed rather disturbed. These disturbed conditions gave a few scattered local showers which were reported on the morning of the 11th from a few stations in South-West Bengal, East Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, but the amounts were of little importance. On the 11th pressure had continued to fall at most stations, the fall being largest in North Bengal, and the area of low-pressure over this district on this day was very distinctly marked, and this was accompanied by a marked tendency for southerly winds at many stations. The excessive temperature also continued, and even increased at some stations, and it had also spread to a greater extent over the province than it had on the previous day; and at Calcutta, for instance, the mean temperature was 7·2° in excess of the normal, so that the disturbed conditions continued on the 11th. On the 12th, however, a very rapid rise of pressure had taken place, the rise at many stations considerably exceeding a tenth of an inch. Winds on this day became more northerly than they had been, and therefore more normal; and finally, temperature fell generally by amounts varying from 3° to 6°. Thus on the last day of the week conditions were rather rapidly reverting to their normal condition.

Pressure.—The general changes of pressure throughout the week have been already described. The mean pressure for the seven days has, however, not been very far removed from the normal, and at most stations pressure has been in defect by amounts ranging up to a twentieth of an inch, the defects being naturally largest at the northern stations.

Temperature—Has been largely in excess, and for the whole province the mean excess has been between three and four degrees; the largest excess has been in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, where it has equalled between five and six degrees. The distribution of temperature during the week and its variation from the normal are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the same period. The variations, it will be seen, have been rather excessive both in the day and night temperatures.

Rainfall—Has been entirely confined to a few local stations and has been of little practical importance. In no case does the average fall in any large meteorological district amount to more than a few hundredths of an inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 12th of December 1890 :—

REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE SONE CANALS.

Notification No. 435, dated the 9th December 1890.

IN exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to make the following revised rules for the Sone Canals, in supersession of those passed in Notification No. 148 of the 20th June 1881, which were published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd June 1881, which, from the date of the publication of these rules, shall cease to have effect, except in so far as they determine the water-rates to be assessed for water supplied under current permits and the date on which they become due and payable.

J. M. MCNEILE, Col., R E.,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

1. The Collector, before awarding compensation under section 16 or 76(c), or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, which shall form part of the record of proceedings.

2 Except as provided in the Act and these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Sub-divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Sub-divisional and Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

3. It will be the duty of the Superintending Canal Officer to issue orders on the following points:—

I.—The limits within which water will be available during the kharif season—(a) for annual leases; (b) for leases for a term of three or seven years.

II.—The distributaries from which water will be supplied during the hot season.

III.—The distributaries from which water will be supplied during the rabi season at a lower rate than that ordinarily charged.

IV.—On sufficient cause being shown, to prohibit the issue of permits for the irrigation of land in specified localities generally or during the kharif season only.

Such public notice as is practicable will be given of the instructions under this rule as long as is possible before they are enforced.

4. Appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act, other than those specially provided for in Rule 37, will ordinarily be from an order passed by the Divisional Canal Officer. The Collector may, when the order passed involves (I) the alignment of a village channel, (II) the refusal of the Divisional Canal Officer to accept a block as suitable for the issue of a permit for kharif irrigation, require the Superintending Canal Officer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of proceedings in the case.

ON VILLAGE CHANNELS.

5. The Canal Officer shall prepare a list of channels which, previous to the 1st of April 1890, have been ordinarily used as village channels, and enter them in a register prepared in the manner prescribed in Part V of the Act.

6. No village channel not entered in the register made in compliance with the rule immediately preceding as existing on the 1st of April 1890 shall be added thereto except at the written request of the owners thereof. But water shall not be supplied for irrigation through any channel other than a registered village channel.

7. Village channels which may be constructed in future shall not as a rule exceed one mile in length; the length being measured in a straight line from the outlet to the boundary of the part of the village which the channel is intended to irrigate.

8. The sum fixed by the Canal Officer as rent under section 68 of the Act shall not be less than half an anna and shall not exceed four annas per bigah assessed with water-rate.

ON LAMBARDARS.

9. In every permit issued under section 75 of the Act other than Rules 18 or 19 following the name of one or more persons shall be entered as lambardar, who will be responsible for discharging the duties mentioned below:—

I.—Obtaining signatures to applications and certifying to the correctness of the same.

II.—Attending and giving assistance in measuring land irrigated or proposed to be irrigated.

III.—Giving timely information to the Canal Officer or subordinate of any insufficiency in the supply of water and promptly reporting when the irrigation of the leased area on any channel is complete.

IV.—Supervising the distribution of the water supplied through an outlet amongst the persons entitled thereto and reporting any misuse of the same.

V.—Being present when complaints are investigated by a Canal Officer or subordinate and giving information required in connection with the same.

VI.—Receiving parchas from the Canal Officer and distributing the same amongst the persons named therein.

VII.—Reporting before the 20th of October all cases in which crops have been injured by deficiency or irregularity of supply in the kharif season, so that these cases may be investigated before water-rates are demanded.

VIII.—Reporting to the Collector or to such officer as he may appoint mutations in holdings in the case of three or seven year leases.

IX.—Assisting the Collector by pointing out the residences of the persons assessed and identifying them and giving such general information as may be necessary regarding the persons assessed.

10. In the case of leases for the season the remuneration for performing the duties mentioned in clauses I to VII of the rule immediately preceding shall be 2 per cent. on the assessments which shall be paid by the Canal Officer, and for performing the duty mentioned in clause IX 1 per cent. on the collections, which shall be paid by the Collector.

11. In the case of leases for three or seven years, other than those entered into jointly with contractors, the remuneration to be paid to the lambardar for performing the duties mentioned in clauses I to VII of Rule 9 shall be two per cent. yearly on the assessments of the year, which shall be paid by the Canal Officer, and two per cent. yearly on the realizations for performing those mentioned in clauses VIII and IX, which shall be paid by the Collector.

12. The lambardar will be appointed by the Sub-divisional Officer in consultation with the applicants for the lease and must be a substantial person having a beneficial interest in part of the land to be irrigated. There is no objection to different lambardars being appointed to represent sections of the applicants, or to a number of persons being jointly appointed as lambardars on behalf of the whole of the applicants. In case the Sub-divisional Canal Officer cannot agree with the applicants in the appointment of lambardars, he shall nominate a lambardar for approval by the Divisional Canal Officer.

In those cases where an application is made by a contractor and cultivators jointly for a lease for three or seven years the lambardar shall be nominated by the contractor.

13. The Divisional Canal Officer may, for reasons which appear to him to be sufficient and which must be recorded, remove a lambardar from his appointment, and in that case a new lambardar shall be appointed in the manner prescribed in the rule immediately preceding.

14. The Divisional Canal Officer may, with the consent of the lambardar, by a written order, of which the lambardar shall be furnished with a copy, transfer to him the duty of controlling the supply of water through an outlet, and may at any time, by a written order, recall such order. Lambardars to whom such control is transferred shall exercise such power, subject to such general written orders as they may receive from the Sub-divisional Canal Officer, and shall receive 3 per cent. on the assesssment in place of 2 per cent. prescribed in rules 10 and 11.

15. The fees sanctioned to be paid to lambardars will only be disbursed if the duties specified have been satisfactorily performed. The Divisional Canal Officer or the Collector may retrench the whole or any part of the fees payable by them respectively in the event of this condition not being complied with. In calculating the fees payable fractions of an anna will be excluded.

ON APPLICATIONS.

16. Applications under section 74 of the Act for permits for irrigation upon leases for a term of years (schedule No. I), or upon kharif season leases (schedule No. II) shall be subject to the following conditions :—

I.—The application must be for a block of land having well-defined boundaries and so situated that adjoining lands will not ordinarily or probably be irrigated by water supplied for the land included in the application.

II.—The application must be in the form annexed to these rules, which states that water-rates will be paid on all lands contained in the block for which an application is presented, whether or no water is required.

III.—The applications may be for a term of three or seven years, or for the season only—

(a)—In the case of applications for the season only the issue of the permit will not necessarily be delayed until the lands have been measured. The boundaries of the block must be stated in the application which must be signed by or by authority of the cultivators of all the land included in the boundaries mentioned, and the approximate area in the occupation of each on the block must be specified. Water-rates will be charged on the areas in the block as found by actual measurement.

(b)—In the case of applications for a term of three or seven years a permit will not be issued until the land has been measured and an application complete in every respect for all the land included in the block has been signed. If water is required to be supplied before the application is completely signed in the manner specified above, an application for water for the season must be made, which will be cancelled on a permit for three or seven years being issued.

(c)—Notice that a permit for three or seven years is required must be given by the 1st of April, and no permit will be issued unless the application is completely signed by the 30th of November, or, with the special sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer, by the 1st of March following. An application for a permit for the season must be filed by the 1st of September.

IV.—With the special sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer—

(a) Existing five-year leases may be cancelled and included in an application for a seven or three year lease under the preceding rules.

(b) An application may be made for an addition to a seven or three year lease, which, if granted, shall be considered as part of the original lease and terminate therewith.

17. Applications for irrigation in the rabi season, 25th October to the 25th March, and the hot-weather season, 25th March to the 25th June, will be subject to the following conditions—

I.—The approximate areas of land for which water is required must be stated in the application, which must be signed by or by authority of the occupiers thereof. It must be stated in the application that the water-rates will be paid on the area actually irrigated.

18. Applications for the supply of water by volume for purposes of irrigation will only be entertained on condition that half the amount chargeable is paid to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer when the application is filed, and that a bond is executed in the form attached to these rules as Appendix VI signed by substantial persons pledging themselves to pay such sums as will in the aggregate make up the remainder. The bond will not have reference to the area to be irrigated, but will be in consideration of a particular outlet being kept open for a specified time, and the sums mentioned therein will be recoverable on the certificate of the Canal subordinate that this condition has been fulfilled. Water will be supplied under this rule from the 1st of September to the 31st of October only.

19. Applications for the supply of water by volume for filling aharas will be in the form attached to these rules as Appendix VII. The entire charge will be payable in advance. Water will be supplied under this rule from the 1st of November to the 25th of March only.

ON PERMITS.

20. All permits for the use of water issued under section 75 of the Act shall be subject to the following conditions:—

I.—That the water is supplied for the sole purpose of irrigating the land mentioned in the application. The term 'irrigating' includes the right to drain (nigar) the land at the proper season of the year.

II.—That water will be supplied at the level at which it is ordinarily maintained in the distributary from which water is taken off and that no earthen bunds or other works will be constructed to raise the level of the water in the distributary. No right to flow irrigation is conferred unless existing appliances admit of it.

III.—That a lambardar shall be appointed in the manner specified in Rule 12 to represent the interests of the cultivators and to perform the duties mentioned in Rule 8.

IV—That the village channel from which water is supplied is kept in a proper state of repair, so that water shall not be wasted.

V.—That water-rates are paid when due.

VI.—That water supplied for the irrigation of a specified block of land shall not, under colour of the permit, be utilized for the irrigation of land beyond the boundaries specified in the application.

NOTE—Where these conditions are infringed appropriate penalties or disabilities to the extent specified in the Act or these rules will be enforced.

21. A permit shall not be issued where, in the opinion of the Canal Officer, waste is likely to occur. In the order refusing a permit on this ground, the manner on which it is apprehended that waste will occur shall be stated.

22. Permits for irrigation upon leases for a term of years (schedule No. I) or upon kharif season leases (schedule No. II) shall be issued under the following conditions:—

I.—The land to be irrigated must form a compact block defined by well-marked boundaries of such a nature as clearly to distinguish leased from the adjoining unleased lands, and also be so situated that unleased lands will not be ordinarily or probably irrigated by water supplied for the land included in the block. The boundaries must be mentioned in the application for a permit for the season, and in the notice referred to in Rule 16*e* when a permit for a three or seven year lease is applied for.

II.—The Canal Officer may exclude lands included in the block not irrigable by flow or for which canal water is ordinarily not required. In the case of permits for three or seven years the block must be not less than 50 bigahs in area. In cases where the Divisional Canal Officer considers it advisable to grant a permit to a block of less area than that mentioned above, the previous sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer must be obtained. No permit for seven years shall be issued unless the owners of the village channel from which water is to be obtained have been registered and the channel itself is in a good state of repair such as to fit it for the conveyance of water without wastage occurring. Such leases will not be issued unless it is known from the experience of previous years' irrigation that a sufficient supply of water is always available and that the quantity required is not excessive.

III.—Permits for three years will be issued on the same conditions as those for seven, except that, as the term for which Government is bound is shorter somewhat less favourable conditions as to situation, soil, and the quantity of water required will be accepted.

IV.—A permit for a three or seven years' lease may be cancelled by the Superintending Canal Officer with effect from a date to be specified in the order for good cause on the application of all the signatories thereto.

V.—Permits for the season will be issued on the same conditions as those for three years, the essential difference being in the duration of the lease and the later period up to which applications are received.

23. Permits for irrigation in the rabi and hot-weather seasons, 25th October to 25th June, will be issued on the following condition :—

I.—Water-rates will be levied on the area actually irrigated, and not on that specified on the application.

II.—The applicants will undertake to give the lambardar notice to close the outlet so soon as the area requiring irrigation has received a sufficient supply of water.

III.—The applicants will undertake to, as far as is practicable, prevent water supplied being wasted or applied to the irrigation of fields not included in the application.

ON DISABILITIES AND PENALTIES.

24. At the request of the Collector, the Superintending Canal Officer may direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

I—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of land in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially required, unless half the amount due for the ensuing year under future applications are paid up in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any three or seven years' lease if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates are in arrears by more than half a year's demand.

25. The Divisional Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector and the sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer, cancel a three or seven years' lease if water is habitually misused or wasted. Such an order shall have effect from the 25th June next ensuing, and two months' notice at least must be given to the lambardars for the information of the cultivators.

ON THE SUPPLY OF WATER.

26. I.—Any Canal Officer may, in the case of pressing emergency, stop the supply of water to any canal or distributary. If such order is passed by an officer below the rank of a Divisional Canal Officer, it shall forthwith be reported to the Divisional Canal Officer, and if the stoppage exceeds five days in duration to the Superintending Canal Officer.

II.—The Sub-divisional Canal Officer may, by written order under section 76*a*, stop the supply to any village channel when he is satisfied, after inspection by himself or by one of his subordinates, that it is not maintained in proper repair ; such order shall be recorded in the sub-divisional office.

III.—No person shall be entitled to be supplied with water until the village channel has been put in a proper state of repair in accordance with directions given by the Sub-divisional Canal Officer.

IV.—The Canal Officer or any of his subordinates may temporarily close an outlet supplying a village channel from which unauthorized irrigation is at the time the outlet is closed being carried on.

27. The Divisional Canal Officer may close the outlets in rotation as he may consider necessary. Such closure shall not, in the kharif season, exceed five days after ten days of consecutive supply and shall be notified to lambardars.

28. No water shall be supplied nor shall any person be entitled to a supply of water until a permit signed by a Canal Officer authorized to sign a permit has been signed and issued.

29. The Canal Officer will be responsible that the supply through the outlet is in the kharif season maintained in accordance with the entries on the permits, and in the rabi season in accordance with the requirements of the crops. In both seasons it will be the duty of the lambardar to inform the Canal Officer or Subordinate when the area under lease has been fully irrigated, so that the outlet may be closed, or if he has under rule 14 been given charge of the outlet to close it himself.

ON DEMAND STATEMENTS.

30. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared, under the supervision and signature of the Divisional Canal Officer, in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor.

31. The demand statements for water-rates due under three or seven years' leases shall be prepared at the same time as the application, and a copy thereof shall be given to the lambardar as well as a karcha for each signatory to the lease with the permit. No further notice of demand shall be given during the currency of the lease.

32. The demand statement for water-rates due under a lease in the kharif season shall be prepared either before the permit is issued or as soon as conveniently may be after its issue, and shall, without reference to the land having been actually irrigated up to that time or not, show the water-rates due by each person whose land is included in the application. Demand statements (parchas) showing the sums due from each applicant shall be sent to the lambardar for distribution, and no further notice of demand shall be given.

33. For irrigation during the hot-weather or rabi season the following procedure shall be followed :—

I.—The area irrigated in any village shall be measured by an ameen appointed for the purpose. The khasrah shall be signed by both the amin and the lambardar who shall be present at the measurements. If the lambardar is not present, the amin shall arrange that at least two respectable cultivators shall be present and enter their names in the khasrah prepared by him. The lambardar shall be permitted to take a copy of the khasrah.

II.—When the measurement is completed the khasrah shall be forwarded to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer, who shall prepare the demand statement (khatiani) with all possible despatch. Copies of extracts of the demand statement affecting each separate cultivator (parchas), signed and sealed by the zilladar, shall, as soon as prepared, be forwarded to the lambardar for distribution amongst the persons charged. The lambardar shall grant a receipt for the parchas forwarded.

III.—If the lambardar is not present or declines to grant a receipt for the same in the prescribed form, the Sub-divisional Canal Officer shall make other efficient arrangements for serving each person assessed with a parcha showing the amount due from him. Parchas may be sent by post.

34. Objections to the demand statements prepared in accordance with the preceding rules 31, 32 and 33 may be presented, either personally or through the lambardar, to the Sub-divisional or Divisional Canal Officer, who shall thereupon, after such enquiry as he may consider to be necessary, pass orders on the same. A copy of the order passed shall be served on the person making the objection. Objections to the demand addressed to the Collector shall be referred for the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer.

35. Objections to the demand statements must be presented within thirty days of the date on which the parcha was received by the lambardar, but this period shall be extended where reasonable cause for delay can be established.

36. The objections may be in a form, which will be sold for half an anna at all canal offices, giving instructions as to the particulars required to admit of the objection being readily investigated; but any form will be accepted provided it clearly states the name or names of the persons objecting, the crop, and the year for which the charge is made and the demand from each cultivator to which objection is taken.

37. Any person not satisfied with the order passed by the Canal Officer under Rule 34 may file an application of appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act. Such application must be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against. The Collector shall thereupon, after considering the records of the case, pass such order as he may think fit and shall meanwhile have discretion to suspend collections by a written order in cases where it may seem advisable to do so.

38. CIRCULAR ORDER.

ISSUED BY AUTHORITY OF THE HIGH COURT OF JUDICATURE AT FORT WILLIAM IN BENGAL.

CRIMINAL

No. 8, dated the 16th December 1890.

Rules for the Maintenance and Destruction of the Registers of Subordinate Criminal Courts.

1. In supersession of all previous orders on the subject, the Court is pleased to prescribe the Registers, of which lists and forms are appended, to be kept in the Criminal Courts subordinate to it.

2. The Registers are shown under four classes—

(A) Primary Registers,
(B) Subsidiary Registers,
(C) Statistical Registers,
(D) Accounts Registers.

The Primary Registers are those which have to do directly with cases filed in Court, and which form a quasi-record of the progress and disposal of such cases. The Subsidiary Registers are for administrative purposes, and the Statistical Registers are for the purpose of preparing the returns. The Account Registers are those which have to do with the receipt and payment of money.

3. The classes of Courts in which the different Registers are to be kept up, and the periods for which they are to be preserved, are shown in the accompanying lists, and on the forms themselves. The periods stated therein are to be reckoned from the date of the last entry in the Register, and the Court is pleased to direct, under Section 2 of Act III of 1879, that, at the expiration of those periods, the Registers shall be destroyed. It is not necessary to open new Registers in every instance each year.

4. While the Court does not positively forbid the maintenance of other Subsidiary or Statistical Registers in the various Criminal Courts subordinate to it, the accompanying lists specify all the Registers which, it is believed, are absolutely necessary either for judicial or administrative purposes.

5. These rules shall take effect from the 1st of January, 1891.

6. The following forms and rules in the General Rules and Circulars Orders, Criminal, have been either superseded or cancelled by the rules now issued:—

In the column for remarks against the name of each accused a note should be made, stating (1) whether the accused applied to the High Court for an order under Section 456 of the Code; (2) whether he applied to the High Court under Section 526 of the Code for the transfer of his case; and (3) the class of officer (Magistrate or Sessions Judge) who disposed of the case, and whether or not they were European British subjects.

The district or province from or to which the cases of the persons entered in columns 7 and 9 were transferred should also be noted in the column for remarks.

Distinctive marks should be made—in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit; and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

6.—The said Promissory Notes shall be absolutely payable in any event, and the amount thereof shall be absolutely forfeited upon such default as before mentioned, and the amount thereof shall not go or be credited in reduction of any loss on re-sale or expenses thereby incurred, but shall be recoverable whether such re-sale shall be had or not, or whether there shall be a loss on such re-sale or not.

7.—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the fifth condition, if remaining unredeemed at 3-30 P.M. of the fifth day following the day of sale, or 1-30 P.M. if the last day falls on a Saturday, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

8.—No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or public securities, on account of opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before the prescribed time in clause 5 on the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted. Provided always that money so subsequently tendered may be taken in payment of the said Promissory Note, but such acceptance of money shall in no way entitle the payer thereof to any right to delivery of the lot or lots in respect whereof the said note was given, or to any of the rights of a purchaser thereof, or release the payer from liability for any unpaid balance of such notes or from the additional liability for the loss and expenses of such re sale as provided for in clauses No. 5 and No. 6.

9.—The opium advertised for sale shall be paid for not later than by 3-30 P.M. of the fifteenth day from the day of sale, provided it does not fall on a Saturday; if it falls on a Saturday, the opium must be paid for by 1-30 P.M.; and in case any lots of such opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any public securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit; and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good all expenses and any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale, and the liability for the loss or difference of price and expenses shall be in addition to, and wholly independent of, the amount of the deposit so forfeited.

10.—Purchasers taking out certificates or orders for the delivery of opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each certificate or order; and it is to be clearly understood that the certificates or orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other certificates or orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each certificate or order.

11.—No deposit of public securities under the fifth of the present conditions will be received in this office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the sale-book, or his authorized agent. The receipt for deposit of public securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

12.—The officer superintending the sale on the part of the Government is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

13.—With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose, in the same manner, of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rs. 600 specified in the second of these conditions.

14.—The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the opium to complete the said twenty-five.

15.—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

16.—The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue:—No. 1, certificate of the opium advertised for sale; No. 2, report of the examination of such opium.

17.—The public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the opium manufactured at the Patna Factory and the opium manufactured at the Ghazeepore Factory for the year 1889-90, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at the Patna and Ghazeepore Factories, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken, for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

18.—Any further information respecting weight or quality of the opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board of Revenue entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of opium, or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the opium for shipment.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first three volumes of this work are now ready for issue, and intending subscribers are invited to register their names with the Superintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses, both chemical and industrial; trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributions have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names; so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and G in 534 pages. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in six volumes by 1891; but a seventh volume may also be issued consisting of an index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary; and this as a work of reference, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

The price to subscribers will be in India Rs. 30 and in England 2 guineas, payable in advance, for the complete set. An extra charge for packing and postage will be made for the set—in India, at 8 annas per volume, and for England at 2 rupees 6 annas per volume.

For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs 6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole sets.

 No copies will be issued to non-subscribers till the work is complete, and no single volume will be sold separately. The price to non-subscribers will be Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England, exclusive of packing and postage.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th December, 1890:—

No. 19 of 1890.

A Bill to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend and add to the provisions of Chapter II of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, respecting Unseaworthy and Unsafe Ships; It is hereby enacted as follows:— of 1880.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Deck and Load Lines Act, 1891: and Title and commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on the ninth day of June, 1891.

2. To section 4 of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, the following shall be added, namely:— of 1880. Addition to section 4, Act VII, 1880.

"'Amidships' means the middle of the length of the load water-line as measured from the fore side of the stem to the aft side of the stern-post."

3. For sections 33 to 43, both inclusive, of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, the following sections shall be substituted, namely:— 1880. Substitution of new sections for sections 33 to 43, Act VII, 1880.

"Deck and Load-lines.

33. (1) Every British Indian ship shall be permanently and conspicuously marked outside with lines of not less than twelve inches in length and one inch in breadth painted longitudinally on each side amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, and indicating the position of each deck which is above water. Marking of deck-lines,

(2) The upper edge of each of these lines shall be level with the upper side of the deck-plank next the waterway at the place of marking.

(3) The lines shall be white or yellow on a dark ground, or black on a light ground.

34. (1) The master of every British ship not being a coasting-vessel within the meaning of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, shall, before his ship is entered outwards from any port in British India upon any voyage, or if that is not practicable, as soon after as may be, mark outside upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre. Marking of load-lines in case of vessels which are not coasting vessels. VIII of 1878.

(2) The centre of the disc shall be placed at such level below the deck-line marked under the provisions of this Chapter or of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, as may be approved by the Local Government, and shall indicate the maximum load-line in perfectly smooth salt water to which it shall be lawful to load the ship. 39 & 40 Vict., c. 80.

(3) When a ship has been marked as by this section required, she shall be kept so marked until she next returns to a port of discharge in British India or arrives at a port in the United Kingdom.

35. (1) The person applying for entry of any such ship outwards shall insert, in the form of application made to the Customs-collector, a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of such disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above such centre; and if default is made in delivering this statement, the Customs-collector may refuse to enter the ship outwards. Statement in application to Customs-officer for entry outwards of such vessel as aforesaid.

(2) A copy of this statement shall be entered in the agreement with the crew before it is signed by any member of the crew; and a shipping-master shall not proceed with the engagement of the crew until this entry is made. Copy of such statement to be entered in agreement with the crew and in log-book.

(3) The master shall enter a copy of this statement in the official log-book (if any).

Marking of load-lines in case of coasting-vessels.

36. (1) The master of every British ship which is a coasting vessel within the meaning of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, shall, before proceeding to sea from any port, mark outside upon each of her sides amidships, or as near thereto as is practicable, in white or yellow on a dark ground, or in black on a light ground, a circular disc twelve inches in diameter, with a horizontal line eighteen inches in length drawn through its centre.

VIII of 1878.

(2) The centre of the disc shall be placed at such level below the deck-line marked under the provisions of this Chapter or of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, as may be approved by the Local Government, and shall indicate the maximum load-line in perfectly smooth salt water to which it shall be lawful to load the ship.

39 & 40 Vict., c. 80.

(3) When a ship has been marked as required by this section, she shall be kept so marked until notice is given of an alteration.

Annual statement as to position of load-line on coasting vessel.

37. (1) The master of every such ship shall also once in every twelve months, immediately before the ship proceeds to sea, send or deliver to the Collector, or other principal officer of Customs of such port as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, a statement in writing of the distance in feet and inches between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's decks which is above that centre.

(2) The master, before the ship proceeds to sea after any renewal or alteration of the disc, shall send or deliver to the Collector or other principal officer of Customs aforesaid notice in writing of such renewal or alteration, together with such statement in writing as before mentioned of the distance between the centre of the disc and the upper edge of each of the deck-lines.

(3) If default is made in sending or delivering any notice or statement required by this section to be sent or delivered, the master shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Modification of certain foregoing provisions.

38. The foregoing provisions of this Chapter with respect to deck and load-lines are subject to the provisions of the two next following sections.

Position of disc and approval of and certificate as to position thereof.

39. (1) The position of the disc mentionedin section 34 and section 36 shall be fixed in accordance with the tables framed by the Load-line Committee appointed in the United Kingdom before the passing of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1890, subject to such allowance as may be made necessary by any difference between the position of the deck-line marked under the provisions of this Chapter or of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, and the position of the line from which free-board is measured under the said tables, and subject also to such modifications, if any, of the tables and the application thereof as may from time to time, with the previous approval of the Governor General in Council, be sanctioned by the Local Government.

53 Vict., c. 9.

39 & 40 Vict., c. 80.

(2) The Local Government shall appoint either a Surveyor employed by Lloyds' Register of British and Foreign Shipping, or an officer specially selected by the Local Government for the purpose, to approve and certify on its behalf from time to time the position of any such disc as aforesaid, and any alteration thereof, and may fix fees to be taken in respect of any such approval or certificate.

Rules.

40. (1) The Local Government may from time to time make rules—

(a) determining the lines or marks to be used in connection with any such disc as aforesaid, in order to indicate the maximum load-line under different circumstances and at different seasons, and declaring that the provisions of this Chapter are to have effect as if any such line were drawn through the centre of the disc;

(b) as to the mode in which the disc and the lines or marks to be used in connection therewith are to be marked or affixed on the ship, whether by painting, cutting, or otherwise;

(c) as to the mode of application for, and form of, certificates under this Chapter; and

(d) requiring the entry of such certificates, and other particulars as to the draught of water and freeboard of the ship, in the official log (if any) of the ship, or other publication thereof on board the ship, and as to delivering copies of such entries.

(2) All such rules shall, while in force, have effect as if enacted by this Act.

Penalty for neglecting to mark, or submerging load-line.

41. Any master of a ship who neglects to cause his ship to be marked as by this Chapter required, or to keep her so marked, or who allows the ship to be so loaded that when in perfectly smooth salt-water the centre of the disc is submerged, and any person who conceals, removes, alters, defaces, or obliterates, or suffers any person under his control to conceal, remove, alter, deface, or obliterate, any of the lines or marks prescribed by or under this Chapter, except in the event of the particulars thereby denoted being lawfully altered, or except for the purpose of escaping capture by an enemy, shall be punished for each such offence with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Penalty on master for having misleading marks.

42. If any of the lines or marks prescribed by or under this Chapter is in any respect inaccurate so as to be likely to mislead, the master of the ship shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Saving of ships marked in the United Kingdom.

43. The provisions of this Chapter as to load-lines shall not apply to ships coming from ports in the United Kingdom and marked with such lines in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being there in force."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to apply to British India (subject to the exceptions set forth in Act VII of 1880, sections 3 and 43) those provisions of the Statute 53 Vict., cap. 9, sections 1 and 2, respecting load-lines, which apply to ships about to enter outwards from ports in the United Kingdom and to ships employed in the coasting trade on the coasts of that Kingdom.

2. A copy of the Statute, of the tables framed by the Load Line Committee in 1885, of the Report of that Committee, and of the Instructions issued by the Board of Trade to Officers in British Possessions abroad (including the regulations made by the Board of Trade under the Statute) is appended to this Statement.

The 16th December, 1890.

D. BARBOUR.

LOAD-LINE COMMITTEE.

TO HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF RICHMOND AND GORDON, K.G., &c., PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF TRADE.

MY LORD DUKE,

In pursuance of the request of the late President of the Board of Trade (the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P.), we have given our most careful consideration to the following questions respecting the determination of the load-lines of merchant ships, and have the honour to report thereon, as follows:—

The questions put to us were—

"(1) Whether it is now practicable to frame any general rules concerning freeboard which will prevent dangerous overloading without unduly interfering with trade?

"(2) If so, whether any, and which, of the existing tables with any, and what alterations, or any other, and what tables should be adopted?

"(3) How far any such tables can be adopted as fixed rules, and what amount of discretion must be left to the officers who have to see that they are complied with?"

Before replying to these questions, we deemed it desirable (notwithstanding the close and technical acquaintance with merchant ships, and with the conditions of safe loading, which members of the Committee from their avocations necessarily possess) that we should together visit the principal mercantile ports, and there make joint observations of the load-lines at present marked upon ships, and of the nature and extent of the actual loading practised. We also thought it well to avail ourselves of the opportunities thus afforded for conferring freely with shipowners, managers, masters, seamen, and others connected with the mercantile marine, and of receiving from them such evidence as they were willing to offer. We have likewise taken in London a considerable body of evidence. In order that your Grace may readily observe how numerous and how experienced have been the witnesses who have thus voluntarily contributed to the fulness of our information, we append to this report a list of their names.

Mr. Thomas Gray, C.B., and Sir Digby Murray, Bart., and likewise Mr. Benjamin Martell and Mr. T. B. Royden have furnished all such information upon the subject as the large resources of the Board of Trade and of Lloyd's Register Office, and of the Liverpool Registry, respectively, have enabled them to supply.

As the result of our prolonged consultations and labours, we have unanimously arrived at the following replies to the questions before recited, viz.:—

1. We are of opinion that it is now practicable to frame general rules concerning freeboard, which will prevent dangerous overloading without unduly interfering with trade.

2. We have the pleasure to submit herewith tables which we consider should be adopted.

3. We are of opinion that these tables can be adopted, at least for all existing types of cargo vessels, and for some years to come, without the exercise of any other discretion on the part of the officers who have to see that they are complied with, than that which concerns the quality and condition of the ship. The freeboards assigned by the tables herewith are suitable for vessels of the highest class in Lloyd's Register, or of strength equivalent thereto, and should be increased for ships of inferior strength.

To the responsible authorities a large discretion must be allowed, viz., that of applying the tables themselves with reasonable modifications to any very exceptional vessels which may now exist, or may hereafter be constructed.

For, careful as we have been to give full consideration to all actual types and sizes of vessels, we cannot but admit that undue interference with trade might occasionally arise were the tables to be applied henceforth to all ships, present and future, without any exception whatever. We are well aware that the discretion which we thus regard as necessary is such as should be exercised with very great skill, care, and judgment; but we see no reason why those charged with the responsible duty of preventing the overloading of merchant ships should not have at their command all needful assistance.

The tables submitted herewith are of the same general form as those hitherto adopted by Lloyd's Register Office, and, like them, involve the reservation above water of a regulated minimum percentage of the total buoyancy. At the same time these tables secure that a sufficient height of deck above water to which the Board of Trade advisers have justly attached much importance. The views of the Board of Trade advisers concerning the value of forecastles, poops, and like deck erections, and the necessity for a liberal amount of freeboard in flush deck vessels which are deprived of such erections have likewise received our careful attention, and have had their due influence upon the tables submitted herewith. The same may be said with reference to the freeboards assigned to vessels of extreme proportions, and to vessels of very fine forms. The Board of Trade distinction between winter and summer freeboards has likewise, after the fullest consideration, been adopted.

The tables as now submitted involve only such limited modifications of the freeboards assigned by the latest tables of Lloyd's Register Office as Mr. Benjamin Martell is able to freely accept and cordially concur with. The same may be said of the extension of the tabular forms by the addition thereto of corrections for changes of length and for voyages in summer, and in the North Atlantic in winter.

In the tables submitted, the definitions of length, breadth, depth, sheer, round of beam and freeboard, have undergone revision. The changes introduced have been made for the purpose of simplifying the assignment and marking of freeboards, and although they modify in one or two points the directions of the fourth section of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1873, and may therefore render legislation necessary, the measure required would be of so brief, simple, and non-contentious a character as to render its passage easy.

It will be observed by the tables that they refer exclusively to cargo-carrying vessels. We have not considered it necessary to carry our investigations into the differences which may be made in the loading of passenger vessels. But it must be understood that under any circumstances those tables contain the maximum loading that should be permitted to any class of vessel.

In view of the unanimity with which we have arrived at our results, it is deemed unnecessary to trouble your Grace with the evidence which has been taken, or with the information prepared and contributed by the various members of the Committee for its guidance from time to time.

In closing our labours which were commenced in January 1884, and have since proceeded continuously, we cannot but express our great satisfaction at the attainment of the unanimity just referred to. The subject placed before us by your Grace's predecessor was one of extreme complexity, and also one which had come to be regarded with much diversity of view (as was natural where the profit and loss of the largest commercial operations ever carried on upon the sea are involved), and therefore it would not have been surprising if we had failed to arrive at conclusions which we could all accept. But by thoroughly considering every important point as it has arisen, and by making reasonable concessions to each other on matters of opinion, we have succeeded in arriving unanimously at our results. As the Board of Trade, Lloyd's Register Office, and the Liverpool Registry are all represented upon this Committee, the importance of this concurrence will be manifest.

We have the honour to be,

My Lord Duke,

Your Grace's obedient Servants,

TO HIS GRACE THE DUKE OF RICHMOND AND GORDON, K.G., &c., PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF TRADE.

MY LORD DUKE,

It appears to the members of the Load-Line Committee who are unconnected with the Board of Trade that it would be advisable to add to the Report of that Committee, now submitted for your Grace's consideration, the following observations:—

It is not assuming too much to say that the origin of this Committee may be traced to the confusion caused by differences of opinion which frequently arose between shipowners and the Board of Trade with respect to the proper loading of vessels. It had become necessary, both in the interests of shipowners and for the satisfactory working of the department charged with the duty of preventing overloaded vessels from proceeding to sea, that an end should be put to a state of tension and uncertainty with regard to what should be considered a safe and proper load-line for vessels, more especially for those engaged in carrying heavy cargoes.

If the labours of the Committee should be considered by your Grace to have resulted in a settlement of this most difficult question, it seems necessarily to follow that a compulsory load-line, based on the tables now submitted, should at no distant date be enforced. It is under this impression that we venture to draw your Grace's attention to one or two matters which, although they may not have come strictly within the scope of our inquiry, are, we believe, nevertheless of vital importance to the ultimate success of our work.

The first matter to which we would refer is that if a compulsory load-line should be resolved upon, it will be necessary to apply the same limitations to vessels under foreign flags as to our own vessels when loading in this country or in the colonies of Great Britain. We allude to this, which would seem indeed to be an obvious necessity, because it has been brought before us in evidence that foreign vessels are frequently grave offenders in respect to overloading. It will be for your Grace's consideration whether it may be possible to establish an understanding with the leading Maritime Powers on the subject; but at all events it will, in our opinion, be impossible to enforce compulsory load-lines on the merchant ships of this country without at the same time requiring their application in British and colonial ports to ships under other flags competing with them.

The next matter to which we would refer is that, in our opinion, if a compulsory load-line is to be enforced, it will be essential to constitute a public authority competent to administer such a measure in a manner that will command the fullest confidence.

It has been carefully pointed out in the Report of the Committee that the tables which are now submitted must be applied "with very great skill, care, and judgment." It will, therefore, be necessary to secure some system of administration capable of giving due and well considered effect to the principles embodied in those tables, not only by a just application of such principles to the many and various types of ships which at present exist, but also by their adaptation to future changes and developments, which are certain to ensue from the progress of naval architecture.

In our judgment, it would only tend to failure to entrust the task which we describe to any purely official administration. The duty of assigning compulsory load-lines, if it is to be undertaken, must, we consider, be entrusted to some body of a more representative character, which should consist not only of officials, but also of gentlemen who, as shipowners, naval architects, seamen, and perhaps underwriters, would bring to bear on this work great knowledge and experience, and who, by reason of that knowledge and experience, and also of their high standing in their several professions, would ensure such a fulfilment of the duty confided to them as would command the confidence of the country.

In stating this as our conviction, it is needless to say that we do not intend to imply that the authority or Council which we suggest should be independent of the Minister responsible to Parliament; but we believe that it will be absolutely necessary for the Minister to have the assistance of such a body as we have described, to enable him to give effect to a compulsory load-line system. We do not consider that there would be any great difficulty in constituting the authority which we thus distinctly advocate.

It only remains for us to add that a compulsory load-line system will also demand scientific as well as practical knowledge on the part of the staff engaged in the work, not only in London, where, we presume, the final determination of freeboard will have to be carried out, but also at the outposts where primary investigations must necessarily take place.

We have the honour to be,
My Lord Duke,
Your Grace's obedient Servants,

Board of Trade,
14th August, 1885.

DEAR SIR,

I have duly received and presented to Parliament the Report of the Load-Line Committee, together with the tables accompanying it, and I shall give the Report careful and immediate consideration.

I cannot, however, allow any time to elapse after receiving the first complete record of your valuable inquiry without begging you to accept on your own account as Chairman of the Committee, and to convey to your Colleagues the best thanks of Her Majesty's Government for the manner in which this most difficult and complicated investigation has been conducted, and for the great amount of ability and labour which has been ungrudgingly bestowed upon it by every one of its members during the last eighteen months.

I am well aware that when my predecessor, Mr. Chamberlain, invited the Committee to undertake this important task, their time and attention were already largely engaged by business, and that it was asking them to make no inconsiderable sacrifice of their private convenience for the general good. But it was felt with confidence that the consideration of the serious interest of this matter to the great shipping interests of this country would be a sufficient inducement to them to give the subject such an amount of care and attention as was necessary to bring their labours to a satisfactory conclusion.

That care and attention have been ungrudgingly bestowed, and the unanimous conclusion at which you have arrived on a subject which has caused so much difficulty to the Shipping Interest and to the Department over which I have the honour to preside, satisfies me that the expectations thus entertained were fully justified.

I have now the pleasure of congratulating the Committee upon the conclusion of their labours, and to beg that you and your colleagues accept my personal thanks, in addition to those of the Government, for the invaluable aid which they will have afforded to me as President of the Board of Trade in my responsible duties with respect to this difficult subject.

I am,
Dear Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed) RICHMOND AND GORDON.

To Sir Edward Reed, K.C.B., M.P.

14th August. 1885.

SIR,

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of the letter signed by yourself and other non-official members of the Load-Line Committee which accompanied the unanimous report of that Committee.

The subjects to which this letter relates are of the gravest importance, and will, of course, receive careful consideration at my hands. But they fall within the scope of the Royal Commission now sitting, and will be laid before that Commission with such further evidence as may be necessary.

Under these circumstances, and until that Commission reports, it would be premature to attempt to discuss your letter at length.

I am,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed) RICHMOND AND GORDON.

To Sir Edward Reed, K.C.B., M.P.

Board of Trade (Marine Department),
Whitehall Gardens, S. W.,
December, 1883.

SIR,

I am directed by the Board of Trade to call the attention of
to the enclosed memorandum on the subject of a load-line for merchant ships.

Under the circumstances stated in this memorandum, it appears to the Board of Trade to be time to take a further step, and they propose to submit to a departmental committee, consisting of representatives of the public and of the interests concerned, the following questions:—

(1) Whether it is now practicable to frame any general rules concerning free-board, which will prevent dangerous overloading, without unduly interfering with trade?

(2) If so, whether any, and which, of the existing tables, with any, and what, alterations, or any other and what tables should be adopted?

(3) How far any such tables can be adopted as fixed rules, and what amount of discretion must be left to the officers who have to see that they are complied with?

I am,
Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
T. H. FARRER.

Memorandum on Load-Line for Merchant Ships.

From the time of the appointment of the Unseaworthy Ships Commission to the present time, the question of overloading has been prominent, and has engaged the constant attention of the Board of Trade. When Parliament thought fit to invest the Board of Trade and its officers with the power of detaining unseaworthy ships, it became their duty to detain ships which appeared to them to be dangerously overladen. In doing this, it was desirable, if possible, to act on certain principles, and it has been the constant endeavour of the Board to arrive at such principles, and to procure the co-operation of the shipping interest in so doing.

In 1875 they invited the Committee of Lloyd's Register, which so largely represents the shipping interest, and the Committee of the Liverpool Underwriters Registry, to appoint a committee consisting of representatives of the two registries and of the Board of Trade to consider the question of load-line. That Committee, after holding several meetings, broke up, because the representatives of Llody's Register could not agree with the Liverpool representatives upon the elements of the question to be discussed.

In the meantime, it was necessary for the Board of Trade to act, and, as their officers required instructions, a certain set of tables of freeboard were prepared, which have been the subject of much misapprehension. They were not, as has sometimes been supposed, hard and fast rules, nor were they prepared or used as final decisions of the Board. They were not in the first instance even promulgated or published, but were given to the staff of the Board as tentative rules, and as points of departure, in the application of which to particular cases the officers of the Board were desired to use their own judgment.

But the difficulty which is inseparable from the exercise of a discretionary power, and which has been experienced by the Board of Trade in many other similar cases, soon arose. Complaints were made of the discretionary powers of the Board's officers, and shipowners expressed their desire, not only to know what were the principles on which these officers acted, but to have those principles made definite in their application, so that they might be able to know, before loading, whether their ships would be detained or no. This desire appeared to the Board reasonable, and although the difficulties of preparing fixed rules of freeboard remained as great as before, the Board did their utmost to comply, by issuing to the Trade the tables above referred to. But in thus complying with the desire of the Trade, the Board did not issue these tables as final conclusions: on the contrary, they expressly invited that criticism which has been so abundantly given.

A further step in the same direction has been taken by the Committee of Lloyd's Register in issuing a set of tables prepared by their own officers. These tables also were issued as tentative, and not as hard and fast rules, and although, as might be expected in rules issued by a body which largely represents the shipping interest, they have been less hostilely criticised by members of that interest than the rules of the Board of Trade, they have not met with universal approval.

Under these circumstances, it appears to the Board of Trade that it is time to take a further step, and they propose to appoint another departmental committee to consider this subject.

In doing this, it is scarcely necessary to insist on the difficulties of the question, or on the various points which will have to be taken into consideration. But it may be useful to advert shortly to one or two points of importance.

So long ago as 1870 a report of the Council of the Institution of Naval Architects was presented to Parliament, containing a strong recommendation that a certain minimum freeboard should be required. What that freeboard would be, is shown by the following paragraphs of that report:—

Extract from Parliamentary Paper, 157—1870, referred to above.

"There is a minimum height of freeboard which cannot be safely reduced in sea-going ships of ordinary fitment, and it is desirable to fix this minimum height. Freeboard should be understood to be the vertical height of the upper surface of the upper deck (not spar deck) at the side, amidships, above the load water-line. The proportion of freeboard should increase with the length. One-eighth of the beam is a minimum freeboard for ordinary sea-going ships of not more than five breadths to the length, and $\frac{1}{8}$ of the beam should further be added to the freeboard for each additional breadth in the length of the ship; this would give—

Freeboard.

"for a ship of 32 feet beam and 160 feet long, 4 feet freeboard;

"for a length of 192 feet, 5 feet freeboard;

"for a length of 224 feet, 6 feet freeboard;

"for a length of 256 feet, 7 feet freeboard, the beam remaining the same, but as the addition of a spar-deck on long vessels may be considered an equivalent or substitute for the increased freeboard required for extra length, a complete spar-deck would leave the freeboard of these extra lengths at the original height of 4 feet.

"It is not considered desirable to offer any recommendations with regard to poops and forecastles. It must depend entirely upon the professional judgment of the designer of a ship, whether, looking to her proportions, form, and purpose, the additions of poop and forecastle are expedient and safe. In general, where poops and forecastles are adopted, they should be closed and seaworthy, but their weight may be inexpedient in long fine ships; and there are cases where a light topgallant forecastle (i.e., an open forecastle raised above the level of the upper deck) may be useful in keeping heavy seas out of the ship. In general, spar-decks in long ships are preferable to poop and forecastle, and no diminution of freeboard should be allowed for a poop or forecastle."

Poops and forecastles.

The above passage is important, since it shows what is the freeboard which a few years since an important scientific body considered necessary for safety That freeboard starts with four feet as a minimum freeboard for ordinary merchant ships, and in spar-decked ships would require the whole height of the space between the main-deck and the spar-deck to be added to the minimum of four feet. The freeboards deemed then necessary by this body are so greatly in excess of the present practice of shipowners, or of anything that has ever been required of them, as to show either that the Institute of Naval Architects at the time they made their report was altogether at variance with the practice of the trade, or that the freeboard in actual use has greatly diminished in the course of the few years during which the question has been under discussion In either event, the difference above referred to illustrates the difficulty of the subject.

It must be remembered that this question cannot be regarded from a shipowner's point of view alone. If the interest of the shipowner in bringing home his ship safe were in all cases such as to make that his first object, no legislation and no rules would be necessary. But, under the present state of the law, this is not the case; and the interest of the public, and of the men whose lives are at risk, will be sacrificed, unless the rules are such as to compel the reckless and ignorant to do that which they would not otherwise do. Any rules which are founded on the experience of the inferior class of shipowners will be an evil, and will lower instead of raise the standard.

In the case under consideration, this primary difficulty is much increased by the number of varying data which have to be taken into consideration. Thus the dangers from overloading may be stated to include the following, viz.:—

1. The decks may be swept by the sea and the crew washed off.

2. The sea may pour on to the deck faster than the freeing ports will relieve it and get into the ship through hatchways or other insufficiently protected openings.

3. The ship may be so heavy that a very slight addition to her weight may sink her.

4. The ship may be deficient in stability.

5. The ship may be too weak in construction to bear the strain of heavy cargo.

The dangers above referred to vary according to many varying causes, besides the mere depth of the ship in the water. All the following are different factors which have to be taken into consideration:—

1. General form and size of ship.
2. Form of the ship below water.
3. Form and construction of deck.
4. Strength of the hull.
5. Construction and strength of hatchways and all other deck openings.
6. Means of escape for water on deck.
7. Nature as well as weight of cargo.
8. Relative position and stowage of different parts of cargo.
9. Nature of voyage.
10. Probable weather or voyage, remembering that the seasons differ in different parts of the world.

Out of these, the first six alone can be known when the ship is built. The last four differ from time to time, and any rule as to load-line must be so made and applied as to vary accordingly.

Thus it is obvious that the number and variety of the dangers to be avoided, and of the different factors to be taken into consideration, make the compulsory determination of load-line one of very peculiar difficulty. And the difficulty is made more formidable by the important consequences which will arise from any mistake. If the load-line is fixed too low, it is a serious detriment to the carrying powers of British ships. If fixed too high, it is a legislative sanction of a dangerous practice.

EXPLANATION of the following TABLES of FREEBOARD for the various Types of STEAM and SAILING VESSELS.

IN the following tables the word Freeboard denotes the height of the side of a ship above the waterline at the middle of her length, measured from the top of the deck at the side, or, in cases where a waterway is fitted, from the curved line of the top of the deck continued through to the side. The freeboards and the corresponding percentages of reserved buoyancy necessary for flush-deck steamers not having spar or awning-decks for awning-deck steamers, and for flush-deck sailing vessels, are given in Tables A., C., and D. for vessels of these classes and of various dimensions and proportions. The freeboards necessary for spar-deck steamers are given in Tables B. The latter are determined by considerations of structural strength, and they denote the limitations to depth of loading which are thereby imposed upon first class vessels of this type. The freeboards and percentages of reserve buoyancy thus obtained being in excess of what would otherwise be required, the amounts of such percentages are not given in Tables B.

The exact freeboard required for a given ship belonging to any of the classes comprised in Tables A., C., and D., may be calculated by constructing a displacement scale to the height of the deck to which the freeboard is measured, so as to give the whole external volume up to the upper surface of that deck. The percentage of the total volume which is given in the tables as the reserve buoyancy for a vessel of given type and dimensions will be the amount of volume that must be left out of the water. If a water line be drawn upon the displacement scale aforesaid to cut off the given percentage of total volume, the height of side above this line will be the freeboard required.

In order to simplify and reduce the work that would be involved by the above mode of determining the water line and the consequent freeboard, that correspond to a given percentage of reserve buoyancy, an approximate method is adopted in the following tables, which enables the freeboard of a vessel to be calculated with a sufficient degree of accuracy for all ordinary working purposes. The use of this method not only saves the time and labour that would be involved by making a complete displacement scale for the whole external volume of a ship, but, what is much more important, it makes the tables easily and directly applicable in cases where such a displacement scale for a vessel is not at hand, or where the data requisite for constructing one is not procurable.

In this approximate method the form of the ship is taken into account by means of proportionate quantities, which are termed coefficients of fineness, instead of by the exact volumes that a displacement scale would give. It is found that the whole internal volume of a ship as measured for register tonnage divided by the product of the length, breadth, and depth, measured as described in the following clauses, 1, 2, and 3, gives a fractional quantity or coefficient which bears a nearly constant relation to the quantity that would be obtained by dividing the whole external volume below the upper surface of the deck by the product of the length, breadth, and depth. This fractional quantity is called the "coefficient of fineness" for freeboard purposes; and it serves the same practical object, when combined with the dimensions of the ship in the manner explained in the tables, as the volume itself would do.

In applying such an approximate method as the above, it is necessary to connect the coefficients of fineness given in the tables with a standard sheer and round of beam. The standard scales for sheer and round of beam that have been adopted for this purpose are given in clauses 16 and 17 hereafter. Descriptions are also there given of the corrections that should be made for deviations from these standard amounts.

The freeboards given in the tables are for flush-deck vessels in all cases. Such reductions in freeboard as may be allowed for deck-erections of various kinds and sizes in steamers not having spar or awning-decks, and in sailing vessels, are described in paragraphs 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15.

No reduction of freeboard should be allowed on account of deck-erections in spar-deck and awning-deck steamers.

Tables A. and D. give the minimum freeboards for first class iron and steel vessels, the strength of which is at least equal to the requirements of the 100A class in Lloyd's Register for three-deck and smaller vessels. The freeboard of all other iron and steel vessels, classed or unclassed, should be regulated by the same standard; the increase of freeboard required in each case being determined by the limit at which the stress per square inch upon the material of the hull amidships shall not exceed that of the standard class, of the same proportions, form, and moulded depth, when loaded to the freeboards required by Tables A. and D. Tables B. and C. give the freeboards for vessels built in accordance with or equal to the requirements of Lloyd's Register for the spar and awning-deck classes; and are subject to the conditions just stated for any modifications of strength in excess or diminution of the requirements of their respective classes.

1. Length.—The length of the vessel is measured on the load-line from the foreside of the stem to the aft side of the stern post in sailing vessels and to the aft side of the after post in steamers.

2. Breadth.—The breadth used in obtaining the coefficient of fineness is the extreme breadth measured to the outside of plank or plating as given in the Register Book, or on the certificate of the Ship's Registry.

3 Depth of Hold.—The depth used in obtaining the coefficient of fineness is the depth of hold as given in the Register Book, or on the certificate of the Ship's Registry. This dimension is subject to modification in determining the coefficient of fineness as explained in clause 4.

Coefficient of Fineness.—The coefficient of fineness in one, two, and three deck and spar-deck vessels is found by dividing 100 times the gross registered tonnage of the vessel below the upper deck by the product of the length, breadth, and depth of hold. In awning-deck vessels the registered depth and tonnage are taken below the main deck.

(a) It is of importance in the application of the rules and tables of freeboard that the coefficient of fineness deduced from the under-deck tonnage and the principal dimensions should be a correct index to the vessel's relative fulness of form, and that a change in any of those elements which affect the coefficient determined in accordance with the rule set forth should be considered, and the necessary correction, having regard to the special circumstances of the case, introduced. Among the cases that have from time to time come under notice are the following:—

(b) Vessel having a cellular bottom throughout, or floors of greater depth than those usually fitted.—In such a case the coefficient as determined from the under-deck tonnage is in most instances slightly greater than it would be if the vessel were framed on the ordinary transverse system with floors of the usual depth. No general rule can be given for guidance; but it is not difficult if the depth and slope of the top of the cellular bottom or floor be compared on the midship section with the depth and slope of an ordinary floor, to determine very closely the amount of the correction necessary.

(c) Vessel constructed with floors of the ordinary kind, but with a cellular bottom for a part of the length amidships under the engines and boilers.—In such a case the registered under-deck tonnage is smaller than it would be if the vessel were framed with ordinary floors throughout, the difference being the tonnage of the space between the top of the cellular bottom in the part amidships and the level of the ordinary floor. The depth of hold is also measured by the customs officials to the top of the cellular bottom, and this depth is inserted in the register. Under such circumstances, in order to arrive at the coefficient of fineness the vessel would have, if built on the ordinary system throughout, and for which the tables are framed, the tonnage of the volume between the top of the cellular bottom and the level of the ordinary floor should be calculated and added to the registered under-deck tonnage. The tonnage so corrected, used in conjunction with the depth of hold to the top of the ordinary floor, gives the coefficient to be used in the tables.

(d). Vessel constructed with a cellular bottom throughout the fore and after holds, but with floors of the ordinary kind fitted for a part of the length amidships under the engines and boilers.—In such a case the tonnage of the space between the top of the ordinary floors in the part amidships and the top of the cellular bottom, if made continuous, should be estimated and deducted from the registered under-deck tonnage, and the remainder employed in conjunction with the depth of hold to the top of the cellular bottom in determining the coefficient of fineness.

(e) Other cases may in practice arise in which the registered under-deck tonnage, or the registered depth of hold, or both, require modification before being used in the determination of the coefficient of fineness, but little difficulty will be experienced in making the necessary correction if it be remembered that the coefficient sought is the coefficient the vessel would have if framed on the ordinary transverse system.

5. Moulded Depth.—The moulded depth of an iron or steel vessel, as given in the tables, is the perpendicular depth taken from the top of the upper deck beam at side, at the middle of the length of the vessel, to the top of the keel and the bottom of the frame at the middle line, except in spar and awning-deck vessels, in which the depth is measured from the top of the main deck beams. In wooden and composite vessels the moulded depth is taken to be the perpendicular depth from the top of the upper deck beam at the side of the vessel amidships to the lower edge of the rabbet of the keel.

(a) The form at the lower part of the midship transverse section of many wooden and composite vessels being of a hollow character, as in cases where thick garboard strakes are fitted, the moulded depth in such instances should be measured from the point where the line of the flat of the bottom continued cuts the keel.

6. Freeboard.—The moulded depth, taken as above described, is that used in the tables for ascertaining the amount of reserve buoyancy and corresponding freeboard in vessels having a wood deck, and the freeboard is measured from the top of the wood deck at side, at the middle of the length of the vessel.

(a) On the same principle, in flush deck vessels, other than spar or awning decked, and in vessels fitted with short poop and forecastle, having an iron upper deck, not covered with wood, the usual thickness of a wood deck should be deducted from the moulded depth of the vessel measured as above, and the amount of reserve buoyancy and corresponding freeboard taken from the column in the tables corresponding with this diminished moulded depth :—Example—In a steamer fitted with an iron upper deck, not covered with wood, and having a moulded depth of 19 ft. 10 ins., four inches, or the usual thickness of a wood deck, must be deducted from this, leaving a depth of 19 ft. 6 ins. The freeboard for such a vessel with a coefficient of fineness of 0·76, taken from the column under 19 ft. 6 ins., is 3 ft. 8½ ins, which should be measured from the top of the iron upper deck.

(b). In spar-deck vessels having iron spar decks, and in awning-deck vessels having iron main-decks, the freeboard required by the tables should be measured as if those decks were wood covered. Also in vessels where $\frac{7}{10}$ ths, or more, of the main deck is covered by substantial erections, the freeboard found from the tables should be measured amidships from a wood deck, whether the deck be of wood or iron. In applying this principle to vessels having shorter lengths of substantial enclosed erections, the reduction in freeboard, in consideration of its being measured from the iron deck, is to be regulated in proportion to the length of the deck covered by such erections. Thus, in a vessel having erections covering $\frac{8}{10}$ ths of the length, the reduction is $\frac{8}{10}$ ths of 3½ inches, or 2 inches.

$\frac{8}{10}$ths of the length of the vessel, deduct 85 per cent.						of the reduction in the reserve buoyancy allowed for a complete awning-deck.
$\frac{8}{10}$ths	„	„	„	75	„
$\frac{7}{10}$ths	„	„	„	63	„
$\frac{6}{10}$ths	„	„	„	50	„

or $\frac{85}{100}$ths, $\frac{75}{100}$ths, $\frac{63}{100}$ths, $\frac{50}{100}$ths of the difference between Freeboards in Tables A (after correction for sheer), and Tables C.

When the engine and boiler openings are protected only by a long raised quarter-deck, a less reduction in freeboard will be allowed.

(b) For intermediate lengths of erections the amount of the reduction in freeboard should be ascertained by interpolation.

(c) The above scale of allowance is prepared for vessels having long poops or raised quarter-decks 4ft. high or above. For raised quarter-decks, of less height, extending over four-tenths of the length, and forming an integral portion of the vessel, the amount of the allowance should be diminished, as shown in the following table :—

Height of raised quarter-deck.	Moulded Depth of Vessel in Feet.
	Ft. in. 10 0	Ft. in. 12 0	Ft. in. 14 0	Ft. in. 16 0	Ft. in. 18 0	Ft. in. 20 0	Ft. in. 22 0
Ft. in.	in.	ins.	ins.	ins.	ins.	ins.	ins.
3 6	—	—	¼	¼	¼	¼	¼
3 0	¼	¾	1	1	1¼	1½	1¾
2 6	1	1½	1¾	1¾	2	2¼	3
2 0	1¼	1	2¼	2¾	—	—	—
1 6	2	2¼	3	—	—	—	—

7. For vessels which trim very much by the stern, through the engines being fitted aft, the freeboard, as ascertained from the tables if set off amidships, would not cut off the amount of surplus buoyancy deemed necessary, and in such cases the suitable freeboard amidships could only be determined after full information is obtained regarding the vessel's trim.

8. The following example will illustrate the general application of the tables :—

In a steamer of the following dimensions, viz., length 204 ft.; breadth, extreme, 29ft.; depth of hold, 16·0 ft., registered tonnage under deck, 682 tons, and moulded depth, 17·0 ft., the under deck capacity in cubic feet is 68,200; by dividing this by 94,656, that is, the product of the length, breadth, and depth of hold, the quotient is 0·72, or the coefficient of fineness.

If we now refer to Table A, at 17·0 ft. moulded depth, and trace the line opposite the coefficient 0·72 to the column corresponding with this depth, it is found that the winter freeboard given for a first-class steam vessel without erections, whose length is twelve times the moulded depth, is 2 ft. 11 ins., corresponding with a reserve buoyancy of 25 per cent. of the total bulk.

9. Vessels of Extreme Proportions.—For vessels whose length is greater or less than that of the vessel of the same moulded depth for which the tables are framed, the freeboard should be increased or diminished as specified in the footnote to the tables. Thus if the vessel in the example, clause 8, were 224 ft. long, the winter freeboard required would be 2 ft. 11 ins. plus 2 ins. or 3 ft. 1 in. For steam vessels with top-gallant forecastles, having long poops or raised quarter decks connected with bridge-houses, the whole extending over $\frac{6}{10}$ ths, or more, of the length of the vessel, the correction for length should be one-half that specified in Tables A.

10. Breadth and Depth.—In framing the tables it has been assumed that the relation between the breadth and depth is such as to ensure safety at sea with the freeboard assigned when the vessel is laden with homogeneous cargo; for vessels of less relative breadth, the freeboard should be so increased as to provide a sufficient range of stability, or other means adopted to secure the same

11. Erections on Deck.—For steam vessels with top-gallant forecastles having long poops, or raised quarter decks connected with bridge-houses, covering in the engine and boiler openings, the latter being entered from the top, and having an efficiently constructed iron bulkhead at the fore end, a deduction may be made from the reserve buoyancy given in the tables, according to the following scale :—

(a) When the combined length of the poop, or raised quarter deck, bridge-house, and top-gallant forecastle is—

(d) For shorter lengths of raised quarter-deck a proportionate increase should be made.

(e) It is to be understood in the application of this scale of allowance for erections on deck to vessels with long poops, or with raised quarter-decks, and bridge-houses combined, that the deduction is a maximum deduction, applicable only to vessels of these types in which the erections are of a most substantial character, the deck openings most effectually protected, and the crew are either berthed in the bridge-house, or the arrangements to enable them to get backwards and forwards from their quarters are of a satisfactory character. For other vessels of the same class, the amount of the deduction should be fixed only after a careful survey. Also such vessels when employed in the Atlantic trade will require to have specially provided greater freeboard than that given in the tables.

(f) A sufficient number of clearing ports, as large as practicable, and with shutters properly hung, should be formed in the bulwarks of these vessels, between the forecastle and the bridge-house, for the purpose of speedily clearing this part of the deck of water.

12. When the erections on a vessel consist of a top-gallant forecastle, a short poop having an efficient bulkhead, and bridge-house disconnected, the latter in steamers covering the engine and boiler openings, and being efficiently enclosed with an iron bulkhead at each end, a deduction may be made from the reserve buoyancy given in the tables according to the following scale:—

(a) When the combined length of the erections is—

$\frac{1}{10}$ths of the length of the vessel, deduct 40 per cent.	of the reduction in reserve buoyancy allowed for a complete awning deck.	or	$\frac{1}{3}$ths	of the difference between the Freeboards in Tables A (after correction for sheer and length) and Tables C (after correction for length).
$\frac{1}{10}$ths „ „ „ 33 „			$\frac{1}{3}$rd

13. When the erections on a vessel consist of a top-gallant forecastle and bridge-house only, the latter in steamers covering the engine and boiler openings, and being efficiently enclosed with an iron bulkhead at each end, a deduction may be made from the reserve buoyancy given in the tables according to the following scale:—

(a) When the combined length of the erections is—

$\frac{1}{10}$ths of the length of the vessel, deduct 30 per cent.	of the reduction in reserve buoyancy allowed for a complete awning deck.	or	$\frac{1}{10}$ths	of the difference between the Freeboards in Tables A (after correction for sheer and length) and Tables C (after correction for length).
$\frac{1}{10}$ths „ 25 „			$\frac{1}{4}$th

14 When the erections on a vessel consist of a short poop and top-gallant forecastle only, the former enclosed at the fore-end with an efficient bulkhead, the deduction from the reserve buoyancy given in the tables should be according to the following scale:—

(a) When the combined length of the erections is—

$\frac{1}{5}$ths of the length of the vessel, deduct 8 per cent.	of the reserve buoyancy	or	10 per cent.	of the Freeboard required for the vessel flush-decked after correction for length.
$\frac{1}{5}$ths „ „ „ 6 „			8 per cent.

and so on in proportion.

15. When a vessel is fitted with a top-gallant forecastle only, the reduction in reserve buoyancy should be one-half that prescribed by the previous paragraph for the case where, in addition to the forecastle, the vessel is fitted with a poop of the same length.

16. Sheer.—The tables are framed for vessels having a mean sheer of deck measured at the side, as shown in the following table:

	Length over which Sheer is measured.
	100	150	200	250	300	350	400
	Mean Sheer in Inches over the length specified.
Flush-deck Vessels.—Sheer to be measured abreast stem and sternpost	20	25	30	35	40	45	50
Vessels having Short Poops and Forecastles.—Sheer to be measured at points distant $\frac{1}{6}$th the length of the vessel from each end	14	18	22	26	30	34	38
Vessels having Short Forecastles only.—Sheer to be measured abreast the sternpost and at a point distant $\frac{1}{6}$th the length from the stem	14½	18½	23	27	31	35½	40

(a) In flush-deck vessels and in vessels to which clauses 11 and 12 apply, when the sheer of deck is greater or less than the above, and is of a gradual character, divide the difference in inches between it and the mean sheer provided for by 4, and the result in inches is the amount by which the freeboard amidships should be diminished or increased according as the sheer is greater or less.

(b) In vessels having short poops and forecastles, and in those having short forecastles only, the freeboard should be corrected in respect of the excess of or deficiency in reserve buoyancy due to variations in sheer from the standard amount over the length uncovered by substantial erections, as provided in the above table. One-fourth the difference between the mean sheer specified and that measured as described is approximately the amount by which the freeboard should be modified in respect of sheer.

(c) The divisor 4 is to be used when the sheer is of a gradual character, and is not strictly applicable either to those cases in which the sheer is suddenly increased at the bow or stern, or to those in which it does not maintain its normal rate of increase to the ends of the vessel.

(d) In all cases the rise in sheer forward and aft is measured with reference to the deck at the middle of the length, and where the lowest point of the sheer is abaft the middle of the length, one-half of the difference between the sheer amidships and the lowest point should be added to the freeboard specified in the tables for flush-deck vessels, and for vessels having short poops and forecastles only.

(e) Where, as in some instances, vessels fitted with long poops or raised quarter decks connected with bridge-houses have the deck line rising rapidly from amidships to the front of the bridge, and from that point onwards gradually approaching the normal sheer line, the freeboard may be slightly modified in consideration of the increase of height of deck in the "well."

(f) In flush-deck vessels and in vessels having short poops and forecastles the excess of sheer for which an allowance is made shall not exceed one-half the total standard mean sheer for the size of ship.

(g) No decrease should be made in the freeboard of spar and awning-deck vessels in respect of excess of sheer.

17. Round of Beam.—In calculating the reserve of buoyancy, an allowance has been made of one quarter of an inch for every foot of the length of the midship beam for the round up. When the round of the beam in flush-decked vessels is greater or less than given by this rule, divide the difference in inches by 2, and diminish or increase the freeboard by this amount. For vessels with erections on deck the amount of the allowance should depend on the extent of the main-deck uncovered. This rule for round of beam does not apply to spar or awning-deck vessels.

18. As a general illustration of the way in which the tables should be used in modifying the freeboard on account of erections on deck, extreme proportions and variations in sheer, the following may be taken as an example:

A vessel is 234 ft. long, 29 ft broad, and has a moulded depth of 17·0 ft., the coefficient of fineness being ·72. Suppose the vessel to have a poop and bridge-house of the united length of 121 ft., and a forecastle 20 ft. in length, and let the sheer forward, measured at the side, be 4 ft 6 ins. and aft 2 ft. 1 in.

	Ft. in.
Freeboard by Tables A if of the normal length, without erections, and with the normal amount of sheer	2 11
The mean sheer by rule is 33·4 ins., or 6 ins. less than that in the vessel, and the reduction in freeboard is 6 ins. divided by 4	0 1½
Freeboard of vessel without erections and with 39½ ins. mean sheer	2 9½
Freeboard by Tables C as awning decked . .	1 4½
Difference .	1 5

The combined length of the erections is $\frac{121}{234}$ths or $\frac{5}{10}$ths of the length of the vessel, and the allowance for erections under clause 11 will be therefore $\frac{5}{10}$ths of 17 ins., or 8½ ins

We have therefore—	Deduct. In.
Amount deducted from freeboard for excess of sheer	1½
Amount deducted from the freeboard for erections	8½
Amount deducted if vessel be fitted with an uncovered iron main-deck (clause 6) = $\frac{5}{10}$ × 3½ .	2 12

	Deduct. In.
The length being 30 ft. in excess of that for which the tables are framed, the addition to the freeboard in respect of the same is one-half of $\frac{3}{10}$ths of 2 ins., or	1½
	10½

That is, 10½ ins. to be deducted from 2 ft. 11 ins., leaving a winter freeboard of 2 ft. 0½ in.
Corresponding summer freeboard 1 ft. 10½ ins.

19. Vessels loaded in fresh water may have less freeboard than that given in the several tables according to the following scale:—

* These tables apply to spar deck vessels in which the height at side between the main and spar decks is 7 ft. from top of beam to top of beam; when this height is greater or less than 7 ft. the freeboard to the spar deck will require modification.

The above reduction in freeboard for summer voyages from European and Mediterranean Ports is to be made from April to September inclusive. In other parts of the world the reduced freeboard should be used during the corresponding or recognized summer months. The additional freeboard specified for the North Atlantic trades is to apply to vessels sailing to, or from, the Mediterranean or any British or European Port, and which may sail to, or from, or call at, Ports in British North America, or eastern Ports in the United States, north of and including Baltimore, from October to March inclusive. Double the above reduction to be allowed for voyages in the fine season in the Indian seas, between the limits of Suez and Singapore.

The following example illustrates the method by which the additional draught of water to which a vessel should be laden in water, partly salt, may be determined :—

A flush deck vessel of 20 feet moulded depth sails from Aberdeen Harbour. To what extent should she be laden beyond the load-line disc ?

On referring to page 8 of the Freeboard Tables, it will be seen that this vessel should be laden deeper in fresh water than in salt to the extent of four inches. Also a cubic foot of fresh water weighs 1,000 ounces, while a cubic foot of the densest sea-water on the British Coast is found to weigh 1,025 ounces, the difference in weight being 25 ounces. The water in Aberdeen Harbour weighs 1,015 ounces per cubic foot, or 10 ounces less than salt water, and as for a difference of 25 ounces in weight per cubic foot the increased immersion is 4 inches, it will be seen that the increased draught of water with which this vessel should leave Aberdeen Harbour is $\frac{10}{25}$ths of 4 inches, or about $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT, 1890.

CHAPTER 9.

An Act to amend the Merchant Shipping Acts relating to load-line. [9th June 1890.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. The Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, shall, from and after the expiration of six months after the passing of this Act, be construed as if in the twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh sections thereof the following sub-section were inserted instead of the sub-sections numbered (2) in those sections respectively:

Compulsory marking of load-line.

"(2.) The centre of this disc shall be placed at such level below the deck-line marked under the provisions of this Act as may be approved by the Board of Trade, and shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which it shall be lawful to load the ship."

Provided that the position of the disc shall be fixed in accordance with the tables framed by the Load-Line Committee appointed before the passing of this Act, subject to such allowance as may be made necessary by any difference between the position of the deck-line marked under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, and the position of the line from which freeboard is measured under the said tables, and subject also to such modifications, if any, of the tables and the application thereof as may from time to time be sanctioned by the Board of Trade.

39 and 40 Vict., c. 80.

In sanctioning any such modifications, the Board of Trade shall have regard to any representations which may be made to them by any corporation or association for the survey or registry of shipping for the time appointed or approved by the Board of Trade for the purposes of this Act.

2.—(1.) The Board of Trade shall appoint the Committee of Lloyd's Register of British and Foreign Shipping, or, at the option of the owner of the ship, any other corporation or association for the survey or registry of shipping, approved by the Board of Trade, or any officer of the Board of Trade specially selected by the Board for that purpose, to approve and certify on their behalf from time to time the position of any such disc as aforesaid, and any alteration thereof, and may appoint fees to be taken in respect of any such approval or certificate.

Regulations.

(2.) The Board of Trade may make regulations—

(a) determining the lines or marks to be used in connexion with the disc, in order to indicate the maximum load-line under different circumstances and at different seasons, and declaring that the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, are to have effect as if any such line were drawn through the centre of the disc;

(b) as to the mode in which the disc and the lines or marks to be used in connexion therewith are to be marked or affixed on the ship, whether by painting, cutting, or otherwise;

(c) as to the mode of application for, and form of certificates under this Act; and

(d) requiring the entry of such certificates, and other particulars as to the draught of water and freeboard of the ship, in the official log-book of the ship, or other publication thereof on board the ship, and as to delivering copies of such entries.

All such regulations shall, while in force, have effect as if enacted by this Act.

3. Where the legislature of any British possession by any enactment provides for the fixing, marking, and certifying of load-lines on ships registered in that possession, and it appears to Her Majesty the Queen that the provisions of that enactment are based on the same principles as the provisions of this Act, and are equally effective for ascertaining and determining the maximum load-lines to which such ships can be safely loaded in salt water, and for giving notice of the load-line to persons interested, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, to declare that any load-line fixed and marked and any certificate given in pursuance of that enactment shall, with respect to ships so registered, have the same effect as if it had been fixed, marked, or given in pursuance of this Act.

Provision as to colonial ships.

Sections one and two of this Act shall not apply in the case of a ship registered in a British possession until the expiration of twelve months after the passing of this Act.

Provision as to Foreign Ships.

4. Where the Board of Trade certify that the laws and regulations for the time being in force in any foreign states with respect to overloading and improper loading are equally effective with the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts with respect thereto, it shall be lawful for Her Masjesty by Order in Council to direct that, on proof of a ship of that state having complied with those laws and regulations, she shall not, when in a port of the United Kingdom, be liable to detention for non-compliance with the said provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, nor shall there arise any liability to any penalty which would otherwise arise for non-compliance with those provisions.

Provided that this section shall not apply in the case of ships of any foreign country in which it appears to Her Majesty that corresponding provisions are not extended to British ships.

Definition of "amidships."

5. For the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, as amended by this Act, the expression "amidships" shall mean the middle of the length of the load water-line as measured from the fore side of the stem to the aft side of the stern-post.

7. In section 23 of the said Act, after the words "ten thousand rupees" the words "recoverable as aforesaid" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 23, Act X of 1841.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The tonnage of ships or vessels to be registered under Act X of 1841 is ascertained by methods which were based on those prescribed by English law at the time the Act was passed. These methods have been superseded by those prescribed in the English Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and Merchant Shipping (Tonnage) Act, 1889.

It is desirable on general grounds that rules as to measurement of tonnage should, so far as possible, be uniform in the United Kingdom and in British possessions; and it is specially desirable that ships owned by British subjects, wherever the ships may have been registered, should, as regards payment of coast-light and port dues, be subject in India to like liabilities in proportion to their respective tonnage.

The object of the Bill is to bring about this uniformity in the treatment of British and British Indian ships.

LIBERALITY OF BABU RAMESWAR PROSHAD NARAIN SINGH, OF MUKSUDPORE IN THE DISTRICT OF GYA.

No. 4529P, dated Calcutta, the 20th December 1890.

From—SIR JOHN EDGAR, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal,

To—The Commissioner of Patna.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 3Ct., dated the 11th instant, and to request that you will be so good as to communicate to Babu Rameswar Proshad Narain Singh, of Muksudpore, the Lieutenant-Governor's appreciation of his public spirit and liberality in contributing Rs. 9,000 towards the erection of a building for the accommodation of the Lady Doctor attached to the Gya branch of the Lady Dufferin's Fund and of those native purdahnashin ladies who do not wish to go to the common hospital for treatment.

The correspondence will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

No. 3Ct., dated Camp Gya, the 11th December 1890.

From—C. C. STEVENS, ESQ., Commissioner of the Patna Division,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE much pleasure in enclosing a copy of a letter from Babu Rameswar Proshad Narain Singh, of Muksudpore, with which he has sent Rs. 9,000 to the Magistrate of Gya to be spent in providing a building for the accommodation of the Lady Doctor attached to the Gya branch of Lady Dufferin's Fund and of native purdanashin ladies who do not wish to go to the common hospital for treatment.

2. The offering is made in commemoration of Sir Stouart Bayley's late visit to Gya, with whose name Babu Rameswar Proshad Narain Singh wishes it to be connected.

3 I would ask you to bring this handsome donation to the notice of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, and would suggest that special mention of it should be made in the Calcutta Gazette.

4. I ask this more particularly because Babu Rameswar Proshad Narain Singh quite lately gave another handsome donation of Rs. 15,000 towards the Lady Doctor's fund when it was first started—vide Government order No 2, dated 10th April 1890.

RICE CROP OF 1890.

THE following papers are published for general information.

REVENUE DEPT., AGRICULTURE,
CALCUTTA;
The 23rd December 1890.

By order of the Lieut.-Govr. of Bengal,
P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Note on the Final Forecast of the winter rice crop, 1890.

SINCE the issue of the preliminary forecast, dated 2nd October, abundant and timely rain has fallen over the whole province. Except in a few districts of North and East Bengal, where the winter rice crop was damaged to the extent of 2 to 3 annas by excessive rain and floods, the prospects of the harvest have been more or less improved by timely rain in the latter half of September and in October in almost every part of the province. Save in the tracts which have seriously suffered from floods, which form a very small proportion of the total area under rice, a full average crop, or more than a full average crop, may now be expected throughout Bengal. In the Sudder and Chuadanga subdivisions of the Nuddea district, in the Bongong and Jhenidah subdivisions of the Jessore district, and in the Sudder and Sewan subdivisions of the Sarun district, the probable outturn, owing to damage by floods, is reported to be only 8 annas or less, and in them there is, as remarked in the bhadoi forecast issued on the 30th October, cause for watchfulness on the part of the local authorities.

2. It has not been found possible in the present forecast to estimate, in tons, the total outturn of rice or the probable amount available for export. The safest indication of the amount likely to be available for export is the amount actually exported in past years when the crop was a full average one, as it is in the present year. The figures noted in the margin show the total exports of rice by sea from Bengal for the past five years Looking to the fact that the character of the winter and bhadoi rice of last year was nearly the same as in the present year, it may be assumed that the quantity likely to be available for export in the coming year will be at least as large as in the present year, and will probably be about 10,000,000 cwt.

Total exports by sea from Bengal.

Burdwan	Sudder	1,342	993	663	486	631	9	14	The crop was affected to some extent by floods and excess of rainfall during transplanting time. The difference between this and the previous forecast is so slight that no explanation is necessary.	In June the rainfall was in excess of the normal, but in July and August, which include the transplanting season, the fall was short of the normal, and not in excess as stated by the Collector, except in the Sudder subdivision, where the fall was in excess in July, but short in August.

Bankoora	Sudder	1,921	670	570	570	570	12	16	In the current year the weather was favourable, except in the months of August and September, when the young plants suffered to some extent for want of sufficient rainfall. In the Bishenpore sub-division, which differs from the Sudder in agricultural conditions, the unfavourable state of the weather in August and September so far affected the crop as to reduce the outturn formerly estimated from 16 to 14 annas.	The rainfall appears to have been well distributed and in excess of the normal up to end of July: in August the fall was, to judge from the meteorological returns, very deficient. At Bankoora only 4·25 inches of rain were recorded in the first four weeks of August against the normal fall of 13·51 inches, and at Bishenpore, 3·52, against 14·51 inches. The transplanting operations appear to have suffered from this deficiency, particularly in the Bishenpore sub-division.

Beerbhoom	Sudder	1,108	777	604	604	620	16	20	The rainy season has throughout been almost ideally perfect in Beerbhoom. Good rain in June (and very early in June too), very heavy rain in July, good sun in August, sufficient rain in September and a crowning mercy of mild rain in October. It is hardly possible to conceive of better than this. Floods do not trouble this district, and there has been no abnormal condition, the land is bearing about as much as it can produce.

Midnapore	Sudder	3,283	1,799·5	1,255	1,242	1,252·5	14	14	Owing to deficiency of rainfall there has been a partial failure of crops almost throughout the whole district. On account of deficiency of rainfall at the time of sowing, the lands could not be wholly cultivated, and again owing to the excess of rainfall in November the crop was damaged to some extent. Owing to rainfall in October some lands that were not cultivated at the time of the former report were cultivated, and hence the difference in area under this year's winter rice.	In the Sudder and Contai sub-divisions the rainfall was very scanty in July and August, only 11·66 inches having fallen at Midnapore during these two months, against the normal fall of 26·42 inches, and 10·5 inches at Contai against 28·63 inches. In Ghattal and Tumlook the fall was slightly short of the normal, though quite sufficient in July, but in August it proved to be very scanty (4·25 inches and 6·5 inches against 16·05 and 14·56 inches respectively).

The Collector's remark as to the irregularity of rainfall in the Sudder subdivision is not at all borne out by the meteorological returns. The character of the rainfall here was the same as in Fenny. There was slight excess of rain (only 3 inches) in Fenny subdivision in July; in June and August it was less than the normal. In September the fall was considerably short, and in October slightly in excess, of the normal. The loss of paddy must therefore be ascribed to floods.

In July the rainfall was exceptionally heavy (51·3 inches against 22·13 inches), but in August it appears to have been normal.

Sudder ...	1,158	670	589	589	589	9½	13	The outturn this year is less than average owing to excess of rainfall at the time of sowing and insufficient rain in July, August, and first half of September.	The rainfall in June was in excess of the normal in all places, but was not of an exceptional character. In July and August, however, the fall was singularly scanty in all places: at Balasore only 5·7 inches fell in July against the normal fall of [illegible] and 7·86 inches in August, against [illegible] inches.

POOREE	Sudder	1,510	720	506	506	516	14	16	Owing to excessive rain at the time of sowing up to the present date the outturn of the winter rice crop has been estimated at 16 annas in the Sudder sub-division; but if there be heavy showers or high winds in the present month, the outturn will be much lessened.	Early in July the rainfall was very excessive; on the 2nd 8·24 inches were recorded at Khurda and 6·22 inches at Pooree.
	Khurda	990	415	251	251	251	14	14	There is at present (1st November) very unsettled and rainy weather, which, as well as the untimely rain at the end of October, have affected the outturn of Khurda sub-division, where the crop is far advanced

HAZARIBAGH	Hazaribagh ..	4,575	2,593	1,124	1,124	1,124	14	20	Throughout the district the rainfall was excessive both in July and August, and therefore favourable for rice crops both in sowing and transplanting seasons; and as sufficient rain fell both in September and October, a bumper crop is expected this year.	The rainfall in June and July was in excess of the normal. In August the fall was short of the normal, at Hazaribagh it was 10·99 inches against the normal fall of 12·87 inches, and at Giridih 9·57 inches against 11·90 inches, but the fall being well distributed and sufficient, the slight deficiency could do no harm.

Final Note on the outturn of the bhadoi crops, 1890.

At the time of the preparation of the preliminary bhadoi forecast (15th September), most of the bhadoi crops had been harvested, and the remainder was nearly ready for the sickle. Deficiency or excess of rainfall after that date could not have affected these crops to any appreciable extent. The estimates of outturn consequently remain unaltered except in a few districts where slight changes have been made, as the result of further enquiries instructed by the local officers since the submission of their preliminary forecasts.

M. Finucane,

Director of the Dept. of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.

Calcutta,
The 10th December 1890.

In the latter half of June and in July the rainfall was very heavy and incessant in the Patna district excepting Barh where the excess was not appreciable.

BHAGULPORE —contd.	Madhepura ..	872	566	175	175	175	Marua	Annas. 10	Annas. 12	Marua has been affected by excess of rainfall at harvest time, and bhadoi paddy was slightly damaged by heavy flood	In Madhepura the rainfall was in excess in June (13·61 against 8·33); in July it was still heavier (23·5 against 12), but there was plenty of fine weather, the number of rainy days being only 13 against 15·4, hence the bhadoi crops did not suffer so much here as in other parts of the district from excessive rainfall. In August the fall was normal with plenty of fine weather There was no rain in the first-half of September. It does not therefore appear how marua harvest can have been interfered with by excess of rainfall at harvest time The injury was probably caused by excess in June and July.
	Soopole ...	1,275	956	280	239	239	Bhadoi paddy	16	16
							Bhadoi paddy	16	16	Insufficient rainfall at ploughing time, unequal distribution at the sowing time, and continued rain in July and August, caused injury to marua plants; but the conditions were beneficial to the bhadoi paddy, which was further improved by a good deal of hatua rain. The estimated outturn of this crop has been therefore increased by 2 annas.

PURNEAH ..	Sudder ...	2,572	1,500	700	648	650	Aus paddy	8	12	The rainfall was on the whole favourable both in ploughing and sowing time, but damage was done at the harvesting time by flood caused by excess of rainfall. This caused the deficiency of four annas.	The rainfall in the Sudder and Kishenguage sub-divisions was very heavy in June (29·1 and 25·4 against 10·8 and 15·3 inches respectively) and moderately heavy in July; but no injury from this excess is noticed by the Collector.

The cause of the low outturn is not understood. In June and July the rainfall was nearly normal, and there was no unusual stretch of rainless weather The injury from inundation to the winter rice crop appears from the winter rice forecast to have been small, it should be less in the case of upland bhadoi crops.

CALCUTTA, the 23*rd December* 1890.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 19TH OF DECEMBER 1890.

For some days before the close of the previous week a fairly well-marked but feeble barometric depression had existed over North Bengal and parts of Central and South-West Bengal, and this had given rise to slightly disturbed weather with rather excessive temperature and with occasional rain showers. On the 12th, or the last day of the week, however it appeared as if the general weather conditions were becoming rather more normal, but on the 13th again a rather rapid fall of pressure took place over Chutia Nagpur and parts of Central and South-West Bengal and Orissa. Pressure on this day was in considerable defect of the normal over Chutia Nagpur and Orissa and the western and south-western parts of South-West Bengal, as well as over parts of North Behar and North Bengal, the defect over other districts being comparatively small, and this was accompanied by rather high temperature, the excess above the normal varying from nearly two degrees at Calcutta to about seven degrees at Cuttack and False Point. Conditions were therefore again somewhat abnormal on this day, and their effect was seen in the somewhat numerous local rain showers which were reported on the 14th in Orissa, South-West Bengal, and hutia Nagpur From the 13th to the 14th pressure generally rose by small amounts, but still Chutia Nagpur, the south-western stations of South-West Bengal and part of Orissa showed a distinctly defective pressure on the 14th compared to the remainder of the province, and again on the morning of the 15th rain showers were reported from Orissa, but conditions were evidently less disturbed than they were; and though temperature was rather largely in excess of the normal over the whole of the south-western districts, the largest excess temperatures of about 5° and upwards were confined to such stations as Saugor Island, Balasore, Cuttack, and False Point A very rapid rise of pressure had taken place on the 15th, and at many stations it equalled more than a tenth of an inch. This had the effect of bringing the general pressure of the province above the normal, and temperature commenced to fall rather rapidly, though it still was above the normal. The wind current blowing over the province on the 15th was, however, still a little unsteady, though it was evident conditions were less disturbed than they were. On the 16th pressure changes were very small, but the fall of temperature continued, and over a large part of the province temperature was lower than the normal, while also a steady northerly wind current was blowing at almost all stations; so that on this day practically normal cold season conditions were again established. The pressure variations on the 17th and 18th were of little importance, but temperature at the western stations commenced to increase on the 17th, and this increase continued rather rapidly on the 18th; so that on this date at all the western stations the mean temperature was in excess of the normal by amounts ranging up to more than 5° at Dehree, Gya, Ranchee, Chyabassa, and Cuttack. On the 19th, or the last day of the week, pressure commenced to rise more rapidly, and became generally in excess of the normal, and temperature began to decrease at the western stations, though it rose in the centre and east of the province; and on this day the mean temperature was in excess of the normal at practically all stations except a few in the south-east of the province, the excess usually ranging from about 1° up to 5°. A fairly steady northerly wind current was, however, still blowing over practically the whole province on the 19th. It will therefore be seen that the principal feature of the week has been the continued relatively high temperature over the western districts of the province.

Pressure—Has varied rather considerably, as noticed above, but the mean pressure has been very nearly equal to the normal for the week, and about half the stations show slightly defective pressures and half slight excess pressures. The variations are however, rarely more than one or two-hundredths of an inch, and generally pressure has been in excess in Behar and North, East, and South-West Bengal, and below it elsewhere.

Temperature—The mean temperature for the week has been more than 5° in excess of the normal in Orissa, about two and-a-half degrees in excess in Chutia Nagpur, and about 1° in excess in South-West Bengal and South Behar. In other districts slight defects are shown varying up to 1·2° in North Bengal.

The distribution of temperature during the week and its variation from the normal are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the same period. It will be seen that the variations have generally been largest in the night or minimum temperatures:—

Rainfall.—The rainfall for the week has been rather local The only district where the falls have been of any importance has been Orissa, which has averaged 0 39 inch In the districts of South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, and East Bengal, the falls have averaged less than a tenth of an inch. North Bengal and North Behar have been rainless, except for a slight shower at Buxa in the Darjeeling Hills district

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 19th of December 1890:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

Quarterly review of births and deaths registered in twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal for the Quarter ending 30th September 1890.

BIRTHS.

THE births registered in twenty-seven of the principal towns of Bengal during the three months ending with September 1890 were 5,503, and correspond to an annual rate of 20·72 per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those towns, which is 1,061,574. This rate is 1·52 lower than the mean rate of the corresponding quarters of the past five years (1885—89), and is also lower than the rate of the corresponding period of any of the past five years except 1887, vide the figures below:—

It will be seen that the highest birth rate during the third quarter of 1890 occurred in the town of Darjiling (42·72) and the lowest in Jessore (7·52). The supposed standard in India is 40 per thousand, but only in Darjiling town out of the twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal was this standard reached during the quarter under report. The nearest approach to it was attained in the towns of Monghyr (37·24) and Rampore Beauleah (34·12). In only three, however, out of the twenty-seven principal towns of the province,—viz. Darjiling. Monghyr, and Rampore Beauleah—did the statistics of birth registration exceed 30 per thousand. In all the rest the rate was very low, especially in the towns of Bali, Krishnagar, Ranaghat, Jessore, Dacca, Chittagong, Patna City, Purneah, and Poori, where the statistics are so imperfectly recorded that the ratio was less than 15 per thousand of population.

DEATHS.

The deaths registered in the twenty-seven principal towns of Bengal during the quarter ending with September 1890 were 6,200, and correspond to an annual rate of 23·36 per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those towns. This rate is 6·40 lower than the mean rate of the corresponding period of the past five years 1885—89, and is also lower than the recorded mortality of the corresponding quarter of any of the past five years with which comparison is instituted, vide the figures below:—

	Quarter ending 30th September of—

The highest mortality during the third quarter of 1890 occurred in the town of Gya (45·60) and the lowest in Krishnagar (9·28). The total mortality of the twenty-seven principal towns in 1890 is lower than the total rates of the two past periods with which it is compared. Registration of deaths was particularly low in the towns of Krishnagar, Santipore, Howrah, Purneah, Naraingani, Ranaghat, Patna City, Chittagong, Bhagulpore, and Midnapore, where the ratios are less than 20 per thousand of population.

The total mortality during the quarter under review from the several registered death-causes is compared in the following table with the mortality from those causes in the corresponding quarters of 1889 and the average of the five years 1885—89 :—

	Ratio per mille during the— Quarter ending 30th September 1890.	Quarter ending 30th September 1889.	Quarterly average of quarter ending 30th September 1885—89.

Bowel-complaints	3·00	4 20	4 00
Injury	·52	·52	·60

The above statement, compared with the figures of both the past periods, shows a noticeable decrease in the mortality of the 3rd quarter of 1890 under the heads cholera, fever, bowel-complaints, and other causes.

The highest annual death-rates from the several registered death-causes occurred in the following towns :—

REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE SONE CANALS.

Notification No. 435, dated the 9th December 1890.

IN exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 99 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to make the following revised rules for the Sone Canals, in supersession of those passed in Notification No. 148 of the 20th June 1881, which were published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd June 1881, which, from the date of the publication of these rules, shall cease to have effect, except in so far as they determine the water-rates to be assessed for water supplied under current permits and the date on which they become due and payable.

J. M. MCNEILE, Col., R.E.,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

1. The Collector, before awarding compensation under section 16 or 76(c), or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, which shall form part of the record of proceedings.

2. Except as provided in the Act and these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer, but the Sub-divisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Sub-divisional and Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

3. It will be the duty of the Superintending Canal Officer to issue orders on the following points:—

I.—The limits within which water will be available during the kharif season—(a) for annual leases; (b) for leases for a term of three or seven years.

II.—The distributaries from which water will be supplied during the hot season.

III.—The distributaries from which water will be supplied during the rabi season at a lower rate than that ordinarily charged.

IV.—On sufficient cause being shown, to prohibit the issue of permits for the irrigation of land in specified localities generally or during the kharif season only.

Such public notice as is practicable will be given of the instructions under this rule as long as is possible before they are enforced.

4. Appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act, other than those specially provided for in Rule 37, will ordinarily be from an order passed by the Divisional Canal Officer. The Collector may, when the order passed involves (I) the alignment of a village channel, (II) the refusal of the Divisional Canal Officer to accept a block as suitable for the issue of a permit for kharif irrigation, require the Superintending Canal Officer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of proceedings in the case.

ON VILLAGE CHANNELS.

5. The Canal Officer shall prepare a list of channels which, previous to the 1st of April 1890, have been ordinarily used as village channels, and enter them in a register prepared in the manner prescribed in Part V of the Act.

6. No village channel not entered in the register made in compliance with the rule immediately preceding as existing on the 1st of April 1890 shall be added thereto except at the written request of the owners thereof. But water shall not be supplied for irrigation through any channel other than a registered village channel.

7. Village channels which may be constructed in future shall not as a rule exceed one mile in length; the length being measured in a straight line from the outlet to the boundary of the part of the village which the channel is intended to irrigate.

8. The sum fixed by the Canal Officer as rent under section 68 of the Act shall not be less than half an anna and shall not exceed four annas per bigah assessed with water-rate.

ON LAMBARDÁRS.

9. In every permit issued under section 75 of the Act other than Rules 18 or 19 following the name of one or more persons shall be entered as lambardar, who will be responsible for discharging the duties mentioned below—

I.—Obtaining signatures to applications and certifying to the correctness of the same.

II.—Attending and giving assistance in measuring land irrigated or proposed to irrigated.

III.—Giving timely information to the Canal Officer or subordinate of any insufficiency in the supply of water and promptly reporting when the irrigation of the leased area on any channel is complete.

IV.—Supervising the distribution of the water supplied through an outlet amongst the persons entitled thereto and reporting any misuse of the same.

V.—Being present when complaints are investigated by a Canal Officer or subordinate and giving information required in connection with the same.

VI.—Receiving parchas from the Canal Officer and distributing the same amongst the persons named therein.

VII.—Reporting before the 20th of October all cases in which crops have been injured by deficiency or irregularity of supply in the kharif season, so that these cases may be investigated before water-rates are demanded.

VIII.—Reporting to the Collector or to such officer as he may appoint mutations in holdings in the case of three or seven year leases.

IX.—Assisting the Collector by pointing out the residences of the persons assessed and identifying them and giving such general information as may be necessary regarding the persons assessed.

10. In the case of leases for the season the remuneration for performing the duties mentioned in clauses I to VII of the rule immediately preceding shall be 2 per cent. on the assessments which shall be paid by the Canal Officer, and for performing the duty mentioned in clause IX 1 per cent. on the collections, which shall be paid by the Collector.

11. In the case of leases for three or seven years, other than those entered into jointly with contractors, the remuneration to be paid to the lambardar for performing the duties mentioned in clauses I to VII of Rule 9 shall be 2 per cent. yearly on the assessments of the year, which shall be paid by the Canal Officer, and 2 per cent. yearly on the realizations for performing those mentioned in clauses VIII and IX, which shall be paid by the Collector.

12. The lambardar will be appointed by the Sub-divisional Officer in consultation with the applicants for the lease and must be a substantial person having a beneficial interest in part of the land to be irrigated. There is no objection to different lambardars being appointed to represent sections of the applicants, or to a number of persons being jointly appointed as lambardars on behalf of the whole of the applicants. In case the Sub-divisional Canal Officer cannot agree with the applicants in the appointment of lambardar, he shall nominate a lambardar for approval by the Divisional Canal Officer.

In those cases where an application is made by a contractor and cultivators jointly for a lease for three or seven years the lambardar shall be nominated by the contractor.

13. The Divisional Canal Officer may, for reasons which appear to him to be sufficient and which must be recorded, remove a lambardar from his appointment, and in that case a new lambardar shall be appointed in the manner prescribed in the rule immediately preceding.

14. The Divisional Canal Officer may, with the consent of the lambardar, by a written order, of which the lambardar shall be furnished with a copy, transfer to him the duty of controlling the supply of water through an outlet, and may at any time, by a written order, recall such order. Lambardars to whom such control is transferred shall exercise such power, subject to such general written orders as they may receive from the Sub-divisional Canal Officer, and shall receive 3 per cent. on the assessment in place of 2 per cent. prescribed in Rules 10 and 11.

15. The fees sanctioned to be paid to lambardars will only be disbursed if the duties specified have been satisfactorily performed. The Divisional Canal Officer or the Collector may retrench the whole or any part of the fees payable by them respectively in the event of this condition not being complied with. In calculating the fees payable fractions of an anna will be excluded.

ON APPLICATIONS.

16. Applications under section 74 of the Act for permits for irrigation upon leases for a term of years (schedule No. I), or upon kharif season leases (schedule No. II), shall be subject to the following conditions :—

I.—The application must be for a block of land having well-defined boundaries and so situated that adjoining lands will not ordinarily or probably be irrigated by water supplied for the land included in the application.

II.—The application must be in the form annexed to these rules, which states that water-rates will be paid on all lands contained in the block for which an application is presented, whether or no water is required.

III.—The applications may be for a term of three or seven years, or for the season only—

(a)—In the case of applications for the season only the issue of the permit will not necessarily be delayed until the lands have been measured. The boundaries of the block must be stated in the application which must be signed by or by authority of the cultivators of all the land included in the boundaries mentioned, and the approximate area in the occupation of each on the block must be specified. Water-rates will be charged on the areas in the block as found by actual measurement.

(b)—In the case of applications for a term of three or seven years a permit will not be issued until the land has been measured and an application complete in every respect for all the land included in the block has been signed. If water is required to be supplied before the application is completely signed in the manner specified above, an application for water for the season must be made, which will be cancelled on a permit for three or seven years being issued.

(c)—Notice that a permit for three or seven years is required must be given by the 1st of April, and no permit will be issued unless the application is completely signed by the 30th of November, or, with the special sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer, by the 1st of March following. An application for a permit for the season must be filed by the 1st of September.

IV.—With the special sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer—

(a) Existing five-year leases may be cancelled and included in an application for a seven or three year lease under the preceding rules.

(b) An application may be made for an addition to a seven or three year lease, which, if granted, shall be considered as part of the original lease and terminate therewith.

17. Applications for irrigation in the rabi season, 25th October to the 25th March, and the hot-weather season, 25th March to the 25th June, will be subject to the following conditions—

I.—The approximate areas of land for which water is required must be stated in the application, which must be signed by or by authority of the occupiers thereof. It must be stated in the application that the water-rates will be paid on the area actually irrigated.

18. Applications for the supply of water by volume for purposes of irrigation will only be entertained on condition that half the amount chargeable is paid to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer when the application is filed, and that a bond is executed in the form attached to these rules as Appendix VI signed by substantial persons pledging themselves to pay such sums as will in the aggregate make up the remainder. The bond will not have reference to the area to be irrigated, but will be in consideration of a particular outlet being kept open for a specified time, and the sums mentioned therein will be recoverable on the certificate of the Canal subordinate that this condition has been fulfilled. Water will be supplied under this rule from the 1st of September to the 31st of October only.

19. Applications for the supply of water by volume for filling aharas will be in the form attached to these rules as Appendix VII. The entire charge will be payable in advance. Water will be supplied under this rule from the 1st of November to the 25th of March only.

ON PERMITS.

20. All permits for the use of water issued under section 75 of the Act shall be subject to the following conditions:—

I.—That the water is supplied for the sole purpose of irrigating the land mentioned in the application. The term 'irrigating' includes the right to drain (nigar) the land at the proper season of the year.

II.—That water will be supplied at the level at which it is ordinarily maintained in the distributary from which water is taken off and that no earthen bunds or other works will be constructed to raise the level of the water in the distributary. No right to flow irrigation is conferred unless existing appliances admit of it.

III.—That a lambardar shall be appointed in the manner specified in Rule 12 to represent the interests of the cultivators and to perform the duties mentioned in Rule 8.

IV.—That the village channel from which water is supplied is kept in a proper state of repair, so that water shall not be wasted.

V.—That water-rates are paid when due.

VI.—That water supplied for the irrigation of a specified block of land shall not, under colour of the permit, be utilized for the irrigation of land beyond the boundaries specified in the application.

NOTE—Where these conditions are infringed appropriate penalties or disabilities to the extent specified in the Act or these rules will be enforced.

21. A permit shall not be issued where, in the opinion of the Canal Officer, waste is likely to occur. In the order refusing a permit on this ground, the manner in which it is apprehended that waste will occur shall be stated.

22. Permits for irrigation upon leases for a term of years (schedule No. I) or upon kharif season leases (schedule No. II) shall be issued under the following conditions:—

I.—The land to be irrigated must form a compact block defined by well-marked boundaries of such a nature as clearly to distinguish leased from the adjoining unleased lands, and also be so situated that unleased lands will not be ordinarily or probably irrigated by water supplied for the land included in the block. The boundaries must be mentioned in the application for a permit for the season, and in the notice referred to in Rule 16*e* when a permit for a three or seven year lease is applied for.

II.—The Canal Officer may exclude lands included in the block not irrigable by flow or for which canal water is ordinarily not required. In the case of permits for three or seven years the block must be not less than 50 bigahs in area. In cases where the Divisional Canal Officer considers it advisable to grant a permit to a block of less area than that mentioned above, the previous sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer must be obtained. No permit for seven years shall be issued unless the owners of the village channel from which water is to be obtained have been registered and the channel itself is in a good state of repair such as to fit it for the conveyance of water without wastage occurring. Such leases will not be issued unless it is known from the experience of previous years' irrigation that a sufficient supply of water is always available and that the quantity required is not excessive.

III.—Permits for three years will be issued on the same conditions as those for seven, except that, as the term for which Government is bound is shorter somewhat less favourable conditions as to situation, soil, and the quantity of water required will be accepted.

IV.—A permit for a three or seven years' lease may be cancelled by the Superintending Canal Officer with effect from a date to be specified in the order for good cause on the application of all the signatories thereto.

V.—Permits for the season will be issued on the same conditions as those for three years, the essential difference being in the duration of the lease and the later period up to which applications are received.

23. Permits for irrigation in the rabi and hot-weather seasons, 25th October to 25th June, will be issued on the following conditions:—

I.—Water-rates will be levied on the area actually irrigated, and not on that specified on the application.

II.—The applicants will undertake to give the lambardar notice to close the outlet so soon as the area requiring irrigation has received a sufficient supply of water.

III.—The applicants will undertake to, as far as is practicable, prevent water supplied being wasted or applied to the irrigation of fields not included in the application.

ON DISABILITIES AND PENALTIES.

24. At the request of the Collector, the Superintending Canal Officer may direct the Divisional Canal Officer to—

I.—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of land in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially required, unless half the amount due for the ensuing year under future applications are paid up in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any three or seven years' lease if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates are in arrears by more than half a year's demand.

25. The Divisional Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector and the sanction of the Superintending Canal Officer, cancel a three or seven years' lease if water is habitually misused or wasted. Such an order shall have effect from the 25th June next ensuing, and two months' notice at least must be given to the lambardars for the information of the cultivators.

ON THE SUPPLY OF WATER.

26. I.—Any Canal Officer may, in the case of pressing emergency, stop the supply of water to any canal or distributary. If such order is passed by an officer below the rank of a Divisional Canal Officer, it shall forthwith be reported to the Divisional Canal Officer, and if the stoppage exceeds five days in duration to the Superintending Canal Officer.

II.—The Sub-divisional Canal Officer may, by written order under section 76*a*, stop the supply to any village channel when he is satisfied, after inspection by himself or by one of his subordinates, that it is not maintained in proper repair; such order shall be recorded in the sub-divisional office.

III.—No person shall be entitled to be supplied with water until the village channel has been put in a proper state of repair in accordance with directions given by the Sub-divisional Canal Officer.

IV.—The Canal Officer or any of his subordinates may temporarily close an outlet supplying a village channel from which unauthorized irrigation is at the time the outlet is closed being carried on.

27. The Divisional Canal Officer may close the outlets in rotation as he may consider necessary. Such closure shall not, in the kharif season, exceed five days after ten days of consecutive supply and shall be notified to lambardars.

28. No water shall be supplied nor shall any person be entitled to a supply of water until a permit signed by a Canal Officer authorized to sign a permit has been signed and issued.

29. The Canal Officer will be responsible that the supply through the outlet is in the kharif season maintained in accordance with the entries on the permits, and in the rabi season in accordance with the requirements of the crops. In both seasons it will be the duty of the lambardar to inform the Canal Officer or Subordinate when the area under lease has been fully irrigated, so that the outlet may be closed, or if he has under rule 14 been given charge of the outlet to close it himself.

ON DEMAND STATEMENTS.

30. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared, under the supervision and signature of the Divisional Canal Officer, in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor.

31. The demand statements for water-rates due under three or seven years' leases shall be prepared at the same time as the application, and a copy thereof shall be given to the lambardar as well as a parcha for each signatory to the lease with the permit. No further notice of demand shall be given during the currency of the lease.

32. The demand statement for water-rates due under a lease in the kharif season shall be prepared either before the permit is issued or as soon as conveniently may be after its issue, and shall, without reference to the land having been actually irrigated up to that time or not, show the water-rates due by each person whose land is included in the application. Demand statements (parchas) showing the sums due from each applicant shall be sent to the lambardar for distribution and no further notice of demand shall be given.

33. For irrigation during the hot-weather or rabi season the following procedure shall be followed :—

I.—The area irrigated in any village shall be measured by an amin appointed for the purpose. The khasrah shall be signed by both the amin and the lambardar who shall be present at the measurements. If the lambardar is not present, the amin shall arrange that at least two respectable cultivators shall be present and enter their names in the khasrah prepared by him. The lambardar shall be permitted to take a copy of the khasrah.

II.—When the measurement is completed the khasrah shall be forwarded to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer, who shall prepare the demand statement (khatiani) with all possible despatch. Copies of extracts of the demand statement affecting each separate cultivator (parchas), signed and sealed by the zilladar, shall, as soon as prepared, be forwarded to the lambardar for distribution amongst the persons charged. The lambardar shall grant a receipt for the parchas forwarded.

III.—If the lambardar is not present or declines to grant a receipt for the same in the prescribed form, the Sub-divisional Canal Officer shall make other efficient arrangements for serving each person assessed with a parcha showing the amount due from him. Parchas may be sent by post.

34. Objections to the demand statements prepared in accordance with the preceding Rules 31, 32 and 33 may be presented, either personally or through the lambardar, to the Sub-divisional or Divisional Canal Officer, who shall thereupon, after such enquiry as he may consider to be necessary, pass orders on the same. A copy of the order passed shall be served on the person making the objection. Objections to the demand addressed to the Collector shall be referred for the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer.

35. Objections to the demand statements must be presented within thirty days of the date on which the parcha was received by the lambardar, but this period shall be extended where reasonable cause for delay can be established.

36. The objections may be in a form, which will be sold for half an anna at all canal offices, giving instructions as to the particulars required to admit of the objection being readily investigated; but any form will be accepted provided it clearly states the name or names of the persons objecting, the crop, and the year for which the charge is made and the demand from each cultivator to which objection is taken.

37. Any person not satisfied with the order passed by the Canal Officer under Rule 34 may file an application of appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act. Such application must be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against. The Collector shall thereupon, after considering the records of the case, pass such order as he may think fit and shall meanwhile have discretion to suspend collections by a written order in cases where it may seem advisable to do so.

38. When the order appealed against to the Collector is that of a Sub-divisional Canal Officer, the proceedings shall be called for through the Divisional Canal Officer, who may record thereon any remarks he may think fit. The papers shall not be detained for the purpose of enabling the Divisional Canal Officer to make further enquiries, which, however, may be directed by the Collector on the suggestion of the Divisional Canal Officer or on his own motion.

39. Applications for mutations of names in leases for three or seven years shall be made to the Collector; if addressed to the Canal Officer they shall be referred to the Collector for disposal.

ON WATER-RATES.

40. Water-rates imposed under section 79 of the Act shall be at the rates shown in the schedule following or such lower rate as the Divisional Canal Officer may fix :—

	Flow or lift.
	Rate per bigah.	Rate per tenth of a bigah.
	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
For water used in an unauthorized manner	5 0 0	0 8 0

Provided that in the kharif season, 25th June to the 25th October, no water-rates under this section shall be levied where the unauthorized irrigation is effected with water taken from land included in a lease, but irrigation effected by cutting a village channel or committing a criminal offence the perpetrator of which cannot be discovered may be assessed with the previous sanction of the Collector, which must be obtained before any detailed measurement of the land irrigated without authority is made Subject to the provisos regarding irrigation in the kharif season mentioned above, persons using water without a permit shall, unless exempted by section 74 of the Act, be charged water-rates at the rate imposed by this rule.

41. Charges for waste of water imposed under section 80 of the Act shall be at the rates fixed in the rule immediately preceding and be subject in the kharif season to the same condition as regards sanction by the Collector as is required by that rule; where a tank or ahara has been filled, a charge of Rs. 5 per thousand cubic yards may be made in lieu of an acreage charge.

42. Water-rates assessed under section 78, 79, or 80 of the Act shall be due and payable on the dates mentioned below:—

Seven-year leases ..	First moiety	15th December.
Three-year leases ...	Second moiety	1st March.

Water supplied by volume to fill aharas		The whole amount before the outlet is opened.

The Divisional Canal Officer will endeavour to forward as many of the demand statements as possible to the Collector fifteen days before the dates fixed for payment, but accuracy in the individual charges shall be regarded as of more importance than a rigid adherence to dates.

43. Where lands are held on a bhaoli tenure, the entire water-rates assessed under section 78 of the Act shall be demandable from the occupiers of the land assessable; but at the written request of the bhaoli owner, in the form, Appendix VIII, which may be presented to the Divisional Canal Officer or to the Collector, the water-rates shall be recovered from the cultivators and the person or persons in receipt of the bhaoli rents in the same proportion as the produce is divisible amongst them. The demand statement shall be made out by the Divisional Canal Officer in the name of the cultivators, any necessary modification therein owing to a request made by a bhaoli owner under this rule being carried out by the Collector. But on lands under Government management half the rates should be paid by the landlord, and in other cases any influence which the Collector may possess should be used to make the zemindar consent to this equitable arrangement.

44. In the case of lands held under a bhaoli tenure being assessed under section 79 of the Act, the whole of the persons deriving benefit therefrom shall be assessed in the same proportion as the produce is divisible amongst them.

ON REMISSIONS.

45. The water-gauges on distributaries or other channels shall be held to give authoritative data for all calculations of discharge required to verify claims for remission of water-rate on account of failure of supply.

46. Claims to remission of water-rates under section 76*b* shall only be admitted on proof of actual loss caused by failure of supply. On proof of such loss the Divisional Canal Officer may remit the whole or any part of the rates. All applications for remission of water-rates shall be made in the manner provided in Rule 34 and twenty days before the crop is cut.

47. Before awarding compensation under section 76*c*, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Divisional Canal Officer, and such opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

48. Notwithstanding anything contained in these rules, the Superintending Canal Officer may, should he consider the circumstances of the case require it, under such general instructions as he may from time to time receive from Government, remit, under the head extraordinary, so much of the water-rates as are in excess of ten annas a bigah. But no such remissions shall be claimable as a right, nor shall any person be entitled to receive an order on an application for remissions under this head, which will ordinarily only be made on the representations of Divisional Canal Officers.

49. A remission statement signed by the Superintending or Divisional Canal Officer shall be sufficient authority for a refund by the Collector.

INTERMEDIARY AGENCY.

50. Leases in the kharif season for three or seven years will be entered into with associations of cultivators as specified in these rules; and also on the joint application of the cultivators and of some person hereinafter called the contractor, who shall collect and pay to Government, under section 82 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, all sums due under the agreement on account of water-rates. The joint agreement shall be in the form given as Appendix II to these rules. The contractor must have a beneficial interest in some part of the land included in the application extending for the full term of the lease.

51. Contractors shall be entitled to collect water-rates from the cultivators who have signed the application and from their successors in interest in the land included in the block at the rates fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor under section 78 of the Act. Every due from a cultivator to a contractor on account of water-rates shall be deemed to be a sum due to Government under sections 82 and 85 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876.

52. A contractor (or in case there be more than one, each contractor severally and jointly) shall use due diligence in the collection of the water-rates specified in the agreement from the cultivators who have applied for the water supplied. In the case of his failure after due diligence to collect, he shall, within thirty days of the rates becoming due, submit to the Collector a list showing the names of the defaulters with the sums due from each, and the Collector shall thereupon proceed to realize the amount due from the said defaulters according to law.

53. A contractor (or in case there be more than one, each contractor severally and jointly) shall be responsible for all sums payable on the agreement, except such sums as he may satisfy the Collector that he has been unable to collect after using due diligence, and shall be entitled to a deduction of 5 per cent. on all sums collected by himself.

54. The contractor shall as such be responsible for the performance of the duties devolving on the lambardar under these rules; but may appoint a lambardar, whose name shall be communicated to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer and whose removal, for good cause to be recorded in writing, may be ordered by the Divisional Canal Officer. He shall, whether he appoints a substitute to act as lambardar or not, be responsible for reporting all changes in the occupiers of lands included in the lease to the Collector.

55. The contractor as lambardar shall be entitled to remuneration at the rate of 5 per cent. on the assessments subject to the provisions contained in Rule 15.

56. The contractor may, if he prefers, in which case it shall be so stated in the application, take the responsibility of collecting the entire sum due under the application, in which case he shall pay the whole amount due less 7½ per cent., making, with 5 per cent. payable under the preceding rule, 12½ per cent. on the assessment.

57. No steps shall be taken to prepare a joint application by cultivators and a contractor until the written assent of the Collector to the proposed contractor has been received. The Collector may, before approving of a contractor under this rule, require him to give security for the due performance of the contract.

58. A contractor may resign his interest in the lease by giving notice to the Divisional Canal Officer three months at least before the 25th June next following, in which case his connection with the lease shall cease from that date, and the Sub-divisional Canal Officer shall proceed to appoint a lambardar under Rule 12 and the Collector to realize water-rates due directly from the applicants. The Divisional Canal Officer may, at the instance of the Collector, remove a contractor who fails to use due diligence in making collections. In such cases three months' notice at least before the 25th of June next following shall be given, and the removal shall take effect from that date.

59 With the written approval of the Superintending Canal Officer a contractor may measure and prepare demand statements for lands irrigated in the hot weather, for which applications in the prescribed form have been filed by him. Such demand statements shall be forwarded to the Sub-divisional Canal Officer, who shall thereupon proceed to deal with them as if they had been prepared by himself.

60. When an agreement has been made for the collections of rates by a contractor, the Divisional Canal Officer shall, under section 82 of the Act, furnish such contractor with a written authority to collect the amounts due by the cultivators, a copy of which shall be sent to the Collector.

ON COLLECTIONS AND ALTERATIONS IN DEMAND STATEMENTS.

61. Collection of all water-rates shall be made by the Collector in accordance with the statement of demands furnished to him by the Divisional Canal Officer except in the case of lands held bhaoli, regarding which the provisions contained in Rule 43 shall be followed.

62. The Collector may make any alterations in a demand statement provided the total sum shown to be due is not altered or an error in account only corrected. When such alterations are made in a demand statement appertaining to a lease for three or seven years, a copy of the alteration statement shall be sent to the Divisional Canal Officer.

63. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is non-realizable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Collector. A detailed list of all sums so written off shall be sent to the Divisional Canal Officer. In other cases the sanction of the Commissioner of the Division must be obtained to admit of demands being written off under this head.

MISCELLANEOUS.

64. No person shall, without the permission in writing of the Divisional or Sub-divisional Canal Officer, pass, or cause any animal or vehicle to pass, on or across any of the works, banks, or channels of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, excepting by means of such bridges, fords and ferries and their approaches, as are provided by the Divisional Canal Officer.

65. No Canal Officer, unless specially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

66. Tanks may be filled with canal water without charge, and without reference to the area irrigated in any village, wherever water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on any canal, under the following conditions:—

(a)—No tank shall be so filled unless the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes or for watering cattle, or both.

(b)—No tank shall be so filled from which irrigation is practised.

(c)—No tank shall be so filled which, intercepting any line of drainage, is liable to overflow from accumulation of water derived from natural causes

(d)—No tank shall be so filled except on the written order of the Sub-divisional Canal Officer issued on the written application of the parties concerned.

(e)—No tank shall be so filled unless the village channel used to fill it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Sub-divisional Canal Officer to be in a sound condition when the application is made.

(f)—The privilege herein accorded may, by written order of the Divisional Canal Officer, subject to revision by the Superintending Canal Officer, whose decision shall be final, be suspended for twelve months for breach of any of the above conditions.

67. The Divisional Canal Officer may supply water for manufacturing or other purpose charging for the same at the rate of one rupee per each 4,000 cubic feet or part of 4,000 cubic feet supplied. Contracts between the Divisional Canal Officer on the part of Government and private individuals for the use of water as a motive power, or for any purpose whatsoever not specified in this rule or the published schedule of rates, shall, if for any period not exceeding one year, require the previous sanction of the Superintending Engineer, and if proposed for longer than a year, shall be submitted for the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor

68. Patwaris called on to assist in identifying land or signatures or to give evidence shall receive such remuneration by way of fee as may be fixed by the Superintending Canal Officer or Collector with the approval of Government, but their signature shall not necessarily be required to any document prepared under these rules. The fee shall be disbursed at the time of attendance as far as practicable by the Sub-divisional Canal Officer or Collector, whoever may require the patwari to attend.

69. Any Deputy Collector or Sub-Deputy Collector may, under the general orders and control of the Collector, exercise the powers conferred on the Collector by Rules 9, 10, 11, 12, 43, 52, 53, 54, 57, 59, 61, 62 and 68, provided that all orders passed by such Deputy Collector or Sub-Deputy Collector shall be appealable to the Collector, if a petition of appeal is preferred within thirty days of their being passed.

70. The Collector may, by a special order passed in each case, refer applications under Rules 38, 40, or 41 to any Deputy Collector for report or disposal. An appeal against an order passed by a Deputy Collector under this rule may be preferred by either the applicant or the Divisional Canal Officer.

8.—No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or public securities, on account of opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before the prescribed time in clause 5 on the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted. Provided always that money so subsequently tendered may be taken in payment of the said Promissory Note, but such acceptance of money shall in no way entitle the payer thereof to any right to delivery of the lot or lots in respect whereof the said note was given, or to any of the rights of a purchaser thereof, or release the payer from liability for any unpaid balance of such notes or from the additional liability for the loss and expenses of such re-sale as provided for in clauses No. 5 and No. 6.

9.—The opium advertised for sale shall be paid for not later than by 3-30 P.M. of the fifteenth day from the day of sale, provided it does not fall on a Saturday; if it falls on a Saturday, the opium must be paid for by 1-30 P.M.; and in case any lots of such opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any public securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit; and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good all expenses and any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale, and the liability for the loss or difference of price and expenses shall be in addition to, and wholly independent of, the amount of the deposit so forfeited.

10.—Purchasers taking out certificates or orders for the delivery of opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each certificate or order; and it is to be clearly understood that the certificates or orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other certificates or orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each certificate or order.

11.—No deposit of public securities under the fifth of the present conditions will be received in this office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the sale-book, or his authorized agent. The receipt for deposit of public securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

12.—The officer superintending the sale on the part of the Government is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall on demand tender at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

13.—With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually until a bid is obtained; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose, in the same manner, of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rs. 800 specified in the second of these conditions.

14.—The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the opium to complete the said twenty-five.

15.—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

16.—The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue:—No. 1, certificate of the opium advertised for sale; No. 2, report of the examination of such opium.

17.—The public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the opium manufactured at the Patna Factory and the opium manufactured at the Ghazeepore Factory for the year 1889-90, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at the Patna and Ghazeepore Factories, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken, for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

18.—Any further information respecting weight or quality of the opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board of Revenue entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of opium, or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the opium for shipment.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
For Offg. Secretary.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C I E.

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department

The first three volumes of this work are now ready for issue, and intending subscribers are invited to register their names with the Superintendent of Government Printing, Calcutta.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses, both chemical and industrial, trade statistics, markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributions have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries, and confirmed the vernacular names; so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 550 royal pages; Volume II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Volume III contains the letters D, E, F, and G in 534 pages. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in six volumes by 1891; but a seventh volume may also be issued consisting of an index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary; and this as a work of reference, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

The price to subscribers will be in India Rs 30 and in England 2 guineas, payable in advance, for the complete set. An extra charge for packing and postage will be made for the set—in India, at 8 annas per volume, and for England at 2 rupees 6 annas per volume.

For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole sets.

 No copies will be issued to non-subscribers till the work is complete, and no single volume will be sold separately. The price to non-subscribers will be Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England, exclusive of packing and postage.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

The 29th December 1890. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

METEOROLOGICAL SUMMARY OF THE MONSOON PERIOD OF 1890.

THE following statement is intended to give a very brief history of the more important features which have characterised the south-west monsoon period and the preceding months of 1890.

During January weather conditions were for the greater part of the month of the normal north-east monsoon character, and up till the 24th no disturbances of any importance entered Bengal. On this date, however, a well-formed barometric depression, which had originated in North-Western India on the 22nd, commenced to pass through the province, travelling through it on the 24th and 25th, and reaching Burma on the 26th. This storm brought rather heavy rain, and in fact practically the whole rainfall of the month was due to it. January was therefore decidedly more free from storms than is usually the case, and for the month rainfall was decidedly deficient in Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, Orissa, and North Behar while it was almost normal in amount in South-West Bengal and North Bengal, and almost twice as great as the normal in East Bengal. Pressure also during the month was rather largely in defect of the normal, the defect usually ranging from 0·06 inch to 0·08 inch; the defect being largest in West and Central Bengal, and smallest in the south of Orissa. Temperature was, on the other hand, in excess of the normal, the excess averaging about 1·6°; humidity was also larger than usual, and cloud proportion rather smaller.

In February also there was a singular absence of cold-weather storms, and only two slight depressions affected the province, neither of which was sufficiently influential to produce general rain. During this month therefore rainfall was confined to a few local showers of no importance. South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and North Bengal were entirely rainless, and the average fall in the other districts did not amount to more than a few hundredths of an inch. Pressure also in this month was in defect in all districts by about 0·02 inch. Temperature for the firsthalf of the month was either below or about normal, but during the secondhalf it became in excess of the normal by about 3° to 4°. Cloud proportion continued below the usual amount in February, but humidity was about normal.

In March again there were no storms of the usual cold-weather type, but owing to the comparatively early setting in of hot-weather conditions, a few local storms of the class called nor'westers commenced as early as 4th March, and they continued to occur locally up to about the middle of the month; but they were, as a general rule, decidedly more feeble than usual. Owing, again, to the comparative absence of storms, rainfall was largely in defect of the normal in all districts except Chutia Nagpur and Orissa, the defects being particularly large in North Bengal, North Behar and South-West Bengal; while, on the other hand, Orissa received a fall rather more than twice as large as usual. Barometric pressure continued in March rather largely in defect, the usual defect equalling 0·04 inch to 0·07 inch. In March also the normal rapid increase in temperature was even more pronounced than usual, and the mean temperature was above the normal in all districts by from about half to two degrees. Notwithstanding the defective rainfall humidity was in this month about normal, while cloud proportion was in excess.

In April conditions were of about average hot-weather character, and the mean temperature for the month was almost absolutely normal. During the first half of the month only a few local storms were reported, and these were principally confined to East and North Bengal, but during the third and fourth weeks two small barometric depressions appeared over the province, and for about ten days from the 17th the weather was generally rather unsettled in all districts except Behar and Chutia Nagpur, while in East and North Bengal severe thunderstorms with heavy rain were of almost daily occurrence, and one of them in the neighbourhood of Mymensingh appears to have acquired the violence of a tornado. Rainfall for April was thus considerably in excess of the normal in North and East Bengal, and rather below it in South Behar and South-West Bengal: it was in large defect in North Behar and Orissa, and in Chutia Nagpur rainfall was practically absent. Pressure during the month was slightly below the normal in Lower Bengal, the difference being about a hundredth of an inch in Orissa, South-West Bengal and South Behar, but elsewhere there was a small excess of about corresponding amount.

In the early part of May there was a short period of intensely hot weather in Bengal, which was accompanied by abnormally low pressure and unusually light winds, and more or less complete absence of rainfall in all districts except East and North Bengal. This lasted up to about the 9th or 10th, during which period a small cyclonic storm had been forming in the Bay of Bengal, probably not far from the Andamans, which afterwards moved in a north-north easterly direction, and on the 7th passed into Burma across the coast between Diamond Island and Akyab, where it broke up on the 8th. The wave of moist winds and disturbed conditions after the breaking up of the storm appeared to drift northwards, and from about the 11th or 12th rainfall became fairly general though by no means heavy over practically the whole province of Bengal. The rainfall for this month was in most districts a little below the normal, the only district in which the defect was considerable being Chutia Nagpur, while on the other hand the falls in East Bengal were slightly above the average. Owing probably to the effect of the cyclonic storm above noted, the general pressure for the month in Bengal was distinctly below the normal, the defect in many cases ranging from two to five hundredths of an inch. The variations of temperature during the month were exceptionally large, and in the early part temperatures of from 4° to nearly 10° in excess were registered, but with the setting in of rainfall this excess disappeared, and for the whole month, though temperature was higher than usual, the excess was not larger than about one degree.

During the first five months of the year or, in what may be termed, the pre-monsoon months, it will be seen that conditions were somewhat abnormal. Pressure had been in distinct defect in each month, the defect at some stations exceeding a twentieth of an inch in January and March. Temperature also had generally been in excess of the normal, the only exception being in April, when it was practically normal. Rainfall also on the whole was very considerably below the normal in most districts. East Bengal had received a fall in the five months, about 6 per cent. below the normal only, but in Orissa and North Behar the defect was from 25 to 30 per cent., in South-West Bengal 40 per cent., in South Behar 50 per cent., and in North Behar and Chutia Nagpur about 60 per cent. During these five months also there were comparatively few storms; the cold-weather or north-east monsoon storms were indeed almost absent, the hot-weather local storms were also not very numerous, and most of them were not very influential, and the only storm of any importance at all was the cyclonic storm of May which passed over Burma.

In the south of the Bay of Bengal the first advance of the south-west monsoon current appeared to take place in the last day or two of April. This advance progressed rather farther up the Bay than usual, and gave rise to the small storm just referred to. About the second week in May again another advance of the monsoon current appears to have been felt in the south of the Bay, and fairly strong winds continued to be reported at the Ceylon stations up to the close of the month. These facts rather pointed to the probable early establishment of the monsoon current, and therefore of the regular rains over Bengal; but though moderately heavy general rain continued to fall in North and East Bengal from early in June, yet in other districts the commencement of the heavy, almost daily, rainfall which characterises the south west monsoon rains did not take place till about the 18th June. In some of the southern districts fairly general rain had occurred before this date on the 5th and 6th and the 9th and 10th of June, but these falls were again followed by periods of fine weather, and from the 13th and 17th of June only scattered showers of rain were reported. The large advance of the monsoon current which brought about the heavy general rainfall of the 18th and following dates was caused by the advance of a feeble barometric depression which formed in the north-west angle of the Bay on the 17th, after which it advanced into Chutia Nagpur, filling up there on the 20th; on the 22nd also a depression formed over the east of the province, and subsquently moved in a westerly direction, giving very heavy rainfall in its advance—several stations reporting from 5 to 10 inches. Both these depressions caused a large inflow of moist winds over the province, and the wind velocities for June were at the coast stations generally higher than the normal, indicating probably a stronger monsoon than usual. The rainfall for the month was however largely in excess of the normal in all districts except East Bengal, where there was a slight defect. The excess falls usually ranged from twenty-five to forty per cent in excess of the normal, but in South Behar the fall was nearly twice as large as usual.

The mean pressure for June was very nearly normal, the differences being generally under a hundredth of an inch. Temperature was in distinct, though slight, defect of the normal, the defect being generally under a degree.

The strength of the monsoon current blowing in July again continued rather largely above the normal as judged by the wind velocities at the coast stations, and, as will be seen subsequently, rainfall was also in considerable excess. There was also during the month a comparative and indeed an almost complete absence of barometric depressions or cyclonic storms such as usually occur during the rainy season. Only one small storm deserves mention, and this formed quite at the end of June in the north-west of the Bay, and moving in a westerly direction crossed the coast near False Point, early in July, but it only gave moderately strong winds, and brought up comparatively little rainfall. The second was a very unimportant whirl which formed in the north-west angle of the Bay on the 19th, and then passed through Chutia Nagpur to the North-West Provinces, where it filled up on the 24th. During this period a steady south-westerly current blew over the whole province, giving heavy rain in all districts. Indeed, the rainfall over the whole province in July was generally about twenty-five per cent. in excess of the normal, but the variations in different districts were considerable. In Orissa, which had on the whole about a normal fall, the district of Pooree received a fall about half as large again as usual, while on the other hand the Balasore district received only about half the usual fall. South-West Bengal also received generally almost a normal fall, and included districts such as Midnapore and Howrah, where the falls were about half as much as usual, and on the other hand districts such as Burdwan and Moorshedabad, where they were from 40 to nearly 60 per cent. in excess of the normal. In East Bengal all districts received practically abundant rain, and the general fall was a fifth larger than usual. The falls in North Bengal averaged about thirty per cent. in excess of the usual amount, the excess falls being mainly determined towards the line of the hills, and in the Darjeeling district the falls were nearly twice as large as usual. In North Behar the falls were even larger, and they averaged 74 per cent. in excess, and all the districts in this division received very abundant falls. In South Behar the fall was 36 per cent in excess of the normal, and again all the districts received abundant rain, but in the Chutia Nagpur Division, though the rainfall averaged 16 per cent. in excess in the district of Singbhoom the fall was only two-thirds of the usual amount.

The pressure changes were rather large during July, though the means of the month were fairly normal, the pressure in East Bengal being almost the average amount, while in the other districts it was below it by amounts varying from one to four hundredths of an inch In the case of temperature also there were rather large changes, and towards the close of the month the maximum temperatures were at many stations 8° to 10° below the normal. The monthly means of temperature were therefore below the normal, the defect being about one to one and-a-half degrees in all districts except Orissa and South-West Bengal, where it equalled about half a degree.

August also was a month of entire absence of storms of any importance, though a few very unimportant depressions or whirls formed in the early part of August in the north of the Bay. They may perhaps have had the effect of diminishing the strength of the monsoon current blowing over Bengal, for the mean wind velocities for August showed that the winds blowing from the Bay were at almost all the coast stations very largely below their normal strength. Rainfall also in this month was rather considerably below the normal in all districts except North Bengal and Behar, where there was again excessive precipitation. Indeed this tendency for the excessive rainfall to be deflected towards the northern districts of the province, that is, towards North Bengal and Behar, was a most prominent characteristic of the monsoon season of 1890. In August Orissa received about four-fifths of the usual fall, and again, as in July, the Balasore district was most largely in defect. South-West Bengal generally was about 30 per cent. in defect, and in the district of Bankoorah in particular the fall was less than a third of the usual amount. In East Bengal the defect was small only, though in Backergunge and Tipperah districts the defects were considerable. In North Bengal and Behar, on the other hand, the falls were about a third in excess of the normal, and all the districts in these divisions received an abundant fall except Pubna and Rajshahye. In Chutia Nagpur, again, the fall was only three-fourths of the normal, and in the Singbhoom district in particular the fall was only 25 per cent of the usual amount.

The variations of pressure during August were not very large and of little practical importance, and for the whole month the means were above the normal by between two and three hundredths of an inch. As regards temperature, the monthly mean for South-West Bengal was normal, and for the other districts below the normal, the defect being under half a degree in Orissa and East Bengal, and between half and one and-a-half degrees in all the other divisions.

September was again a month in which nothing like a storm occurred in the Bay of Bengal, and during the greater part of the month only light monsoon weather prevailed A very shallow depression did indeed form from the 13th to the 19th, remaining for the greater part of the time over Orissa, but it was not very influential in the matter of rainfall. A rather more important depression formed in the Bay off Vizagapatam on the 22nd, and gradually drifted inland between Gopalpore and Vizagapatam, moving in a north-westerly and northerly direction, and passing through Orissa into Chutia Nagpur, where it filled up on the 28th. This rather feeble depression nevertheless brought up a very powerful wave of moisture-laden winds, and very heavy and general rain prevailed over the province during the latter part of the month. The rainfall of the first half of September was, however, much lighter and more scattered than usual, and thus the monthly rainfall was decidedly below the normal in East Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and Behar, while it was about normal in Behar. Orissa, however, through which both depressions passed, received the very heavy rainfall of nearly 70 per cent. in excess of the normal. North Bengal also received very heavy falls of rain as in the previous months, and showed a fall nearly half as large again as the normal. In the division of Orissa all the districts received very heavy falls, but in South-West Bengal, though generally there was a normal fall, Khoolna and Jessore showed rather serious defects. Practically also all the districts in East Bengal showed very seriously deficient rainfall, while all the districts in North Bengal had very heavy falls. In North Behar, Purneah received a large fall, and all other districts comparatively small falls; and in South Behar the falls were most deficient in Gya, South Bhagulpur and Monghyr districts. Finally, in Chutia Nagpur, Singbhoom, which had been in previous months recording most largely deficient falls, in September received comparatively rather larger falls, though even in this month they were below the normal amounts.

The variations of pressure during the first half of September were small and of little consequence, but during the second half they were rather large. The means for the month were below the normal by about 0·02 inch in the south of Orissa, and about 0·03 inch above it in East Bengal, but elsewhere the difference from the normal was only a few thousandths of an inch. In the case of temperature there were large variations, and during the early part of the month, when rainfall was rather deficient, temperature was in considerable excess, but with the heavy falls of rain towards the close of the month a very rapid fall of temperature set in, and it became much below the normal. For the whole month the mean temperature was nearly normal, some districts showing slight defects and others excess temperatures, but in no case did the variations exceed half a degree.

Up to the end of September weather conditions in Bengal continued to be influenced by the depression which had filled up on the 28th in Chutia Nagpur. Early in October, however, rainfall practically ceased over the province, the monsoon current became weak, and apparently commenced to retreat rapidly down the Bay. In its retreat, however, a barometric depression of rather greater importance than those in the preceding months commenced to form, and the little storm had a life history from the 8th to the 16th of October. The depression at first apparently covered a considerable part of the south of the Bay, but up till the 11th it had changed very little, when on this day the centre was probably to the east of Coconada, and was moving in a north or north-westerly direction. On the 12th the centre was close to the coast between Vizagapatam and Gopalpore, and it crossed the coast on the following morning, after which it moved northward, passing through Orissa and the adjacent parts of South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur. The small storm was not a severe one, but it brought up particularly heavy rain. The general rainfall in October was to a great extent due to this cause. After this the south west monsoon current again commenced to retreat down the Bay, but on the 20th a second depression began to appear in the east of the centre of the Bay. This small storm, which was only of feeble character and of very local influence, moved in a northerly direction over the Sunderbuns into East Bengal, and on the 23rd its centre was near Furreedpore, and it filled up on the following day. Except in the immediate proximity of the storm centre, the rainfall brought up was light, and it did not extend generally beyond East Bengal. After the 25th October the monsoon current again retreated, giving a few showers in Orissa, but practically by the close of October the south-west monsoon rainfall had entirely ceased, and a steady northerly wind current was setting in over the whole of the province. The dates on which the general rainfall ceased in the various moteorological divisions were as follows:—in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur about the 15th, in North Behar and North Bengal about the 17th, in South-West Bengal the 18th to the 20th, in East Bengal on the 25th, and in Orissa about the 31st.

Owing principally to the heaviness of the rainfall brought up by the first of the two feeble storms described, the rainfall in October was considerably above the normal, the general excess averaging nearly 50 per cent. In only one division were the falls below the usual amount, and in Chutia Nagpur the defect was about 30 per cent., and all the districts in the division showed large deficiency. In Behar the falls generally were slightly heavier than usual, but in the districts making up the division there were very great anomalies. The Sonthal Pergunnahs received a fall, about three times as large as usual, receiving ten inches of rain instead of about three-and-a-half; the Chumparun and South Bhagulpur districts also received considerable excess falls; but on the other hand, the falls in Gya, Sarun, Patna and Shahabad were extremely defective. East Bengal generally received a fall of about a quarter larger than usual, but even here Chittagong was considerably in defect. In Orissa the fall was about half as large again as usual, all districts receiving an excess fall; and in South-West Bengal the general fall averaged eight inches against the normal amount of about four inches, and the excess falls in the districts of 24-Pergunnahs, Beerbhoom and Nuddea were particularly large. The Division of North Bengal, however, again showed the peculiar determination of the rain-bearing current towards this district, and it received nearly twelve and a third inches general fall as against a normal amount of about four inches and a third. In many of the districts of North Bengal in October indeed the actual falls were from three to four times the ordinary amounts.

In regard to the other meteorological elements for October pressure changes during the existence of the first small storm described were moderately large, but during the second storm they were small. For the whole month the mean pressure did not differ from the normal by more than a few thousandths of an inch Owing apparently to the heaviness of the rainfall in October, the mean temperatures were rather largely below the normal, the defects ranging from 1·6° in Chutia Nagpur to 0·3° in North Behar.

The principal features of the monsoon season of 1890 and of the months preceding it in Bengal have therefore been—

1. Pressure was rather decidedly in defect of the normal up to the commencement of the rains.

2. Temperature was on the other hand in excess of the normal both during the north-east monsoon season and in the hot-weather season, and indeed up till practically the commencement of the rains.

3. There was an almost entire absence of cold-weather storms during the early months of the year, and the hot-weather storms were not very numerous nor were they of any particular intensity in most cases. The only storm of any importance whatever was one which occurred in front of the first advance of south-west monsoon winds in the Bay, and which afterwards struck the coast between Akyab and Diamond Island, but even this was not very intense.

4. Rainfall up to the setting in of the monsoon rains was on the whole considerably below the normal, the defects ranging from 6 per cent. of the normal in East Bengal to 50 and 60 per cent. in North Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

5. The actual monsoon rains set in a few days later than usual, the general date over the greater part of the province being about 18th June.

6. During the whole of the south-west monsoon and even during its retreat southwards down the Bay, not a single severe storm has occurred, and the only importance which any of the few whirls which were formed possessed has been due to the rainfall brought up by them. The monsoon period this year has therefore been a singularly quiet one.

7. The monsoon current appeared to be considerably in excess of its normal strength in June and July, though in August and September it was rather below it. It retreated from Bengal at about the normal period.

8. Rainfall was largely in excess of the normal in June and July, of more nearly normal amount in August and September, and again largely in excess in October.

9. The rainfall in October continued rather later than usual owing to the effect of a diffused barometric depression which advanced from the Bay over part of the province about the middle of the month.

10. There was a very singular and pronounced tendency for the heavy rainfall to concentrate itself towards the north of the province and towards the line of the hills. This tendency was particularly well marked in the districts of North Behar and to a rather smaller extent over North and South Behar. In North Bengal the rainfall from June to October inclusive was about 63 per cent. in excess of the normal.

11. The following tables give briefly the amount and variation of the rainfall in each of the seven meteorological divisions, month by month, for the monsoon season, May to October inclusive:—

A letter from the Director of Public Instruction, No. 6900, dated the 14th December 1890, reporting on this subject.

The Superintendent of the Tributary States of Orissa has reported that the Rajah of Daspalla has offered to make over Rs. 1,200 in order to establish, out of the interest of that sum, a scholarship of Rs. 4 a month awardable to a student of the Daspalla State Middle Vernacular School after passing the Middle Vernacular Scholarship Examination, the scholarship being called the "Worsley Scholarship," and being tenable for four years in the Ravenshaw Collegiate School, Cuttack. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to accept the offer, and tenders his thanks to the Rajah for his liberality. The Superintendent of the Tributary States will be the administrator of the fund, and the Rajah should be informed that his remittance to the Treasury should cover the market value of the note, plus 5 per cent. to cover incidental charges attendant on the purchase, it being understood that the 5 per cent. deposit is an advance subject to account.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

CALCUTTA, the 30th December 1890.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 26TH OF DECEMBER 1890.

It is desirable to notice that this is the last weekly meteorological report which will deal with the weeks ending on Fridays, and that in future, commencing with the week ending on January 3rd, the meteorological week will be considered to end on Saturdays at 8 A.M. The system with the week ending on Fridays has been in force for nearly eight years, since the first week of April 1883, but at the suggestion of the Government of India it is now to be changed, as above stated, to bring the Bengal weekly report into uniformity with the weekly rainfall reports to be published in all other provinces of India.

The week under review has been one in which the changes have been somewhat considerable, though fine weather has prevailed throughout. On the first day of the week pressure was in slight excess of the normal, while temperature was exceedingly high in the western districts, where at some stations the mean temperatures were 5° to 7° above the normal, though on the other hand in the east of the province temperature was in defect by one to two degrees. A steady northerly wind current of fairly normal direction was reported at all stations, weather was fine, and there was no rain. On the 21st there had been a rather considerable fall of pressure which continued on the 22nd, but the fall was succeeded by a sharp rise on the 23rd and 24th, the increase on the latter date at many stations equalling about one-eighth of an inch. Pressure again fell by about a twentieth to a tenth of an inch on the 25th, and by an almost similar amount on the 26th, and on this day pressure was in rather considerable defect of the normal over the north of the province, though it was more normal elsewhere. It will thus be seen the pressure changes during the week have been much larger than is usual during the north-east monsoon season. Temperature has also changed considerably. From the 20th to the 21st there had usually been a fall of rather less than a degree; this was succeeded on the 22nd by an increase of from two to three degrees, and on the 23rd by a fall varying at some stations up to more than five degrees, and on the 24th by a further fall which averaged about 3°, but which at many stations exceeded 5°. On the 26th a rise of temperature set in over the northern districts, though the fall continued at the southern stations, and on the 26th the rise continued at the majority of stations, the increase equalling 5° at such stations as Hazaribagh and Gya. It will be seen that in temperature also the changes during the week have been unusually large and variable, and at the close of the week again temperature was in excess of the normal by amounts generally ranging up to about 2°. Wind directions during the week have, however, been fairly steady and tolerably normal in character, and the sky has been usually cloudless, and at no station has there been any rainfall at all

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has varied from the normal by small amounts only, and at most stations it has been above the normal by one or two-hundredths of an inch.

Temperature.—The mean temperature for the week has been about five and-a-half degrees in excess of the normal in Orissa, three degrees in excess in Chutia Nagpur, two degrees in South-West Bengal and South Behar, and nearly one degree above it elsewhere. For the whole province the average excess has been rather more than two degrees. The distribution of temperature during the week and its variation from the normal are best seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The variations of the minimum or night temperatures at these stations have been larger than those of the maximum or day temperatures, and the mean excess of the minimum temperatures has been about two and-a-half degrees as against an excess of less than one degree in the day temperature:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
